Lo, the Poor Broker R Brings the Oyster Hall Caine Is Gone Brave, Patient China

— By Arthur Brisbane —

YESTERDAY IN Wall Street reminded brokers of the "old cat dying out." Total sales of stock were 500,000 shares. The previous day they were 700,000.

Unhappy traders remembering the good old 5,000,000 share days, with exchange seats selling above half a million, were reminded of Macauley's "traveler from New Zealand, in the midst of a vast solitude, on a broken arch of London Bridge, sketching the ruins of St. Paul's."

September, with its R, brings back the oysters, and to many that line is more beautiful than Sappho's about the evening that brings back the child to its mother.

Somebody said the man who first ate an oyster was brave. He is unwise who doesn't eat them now with their value in food, vitamins and easy digestion so well established.

As important as food and aesthetic value of the oyster, according to William H. Raye, of the General Foods Corp., is the fact that the oyster season opening provides employment for 40,000 additional men. That is welcome.

This year the United States' oyster crop will be about eighteen million bushels, and by 1933, according to Mr. Raye, "the yield will be stepped up to more than 20,000,000 bushels."

The female oyster never heard of birth control, and lays millions of eggs at a time.

Big business is co-operating with her, to make those eggs survive to appear on the half shell and otherwise. Thanks to modern refrigeration, "quick-freezing," and other methods, the oyster is delivered everywhere in prime condition. And, thanks to the prolific mother oyster, with proper care, the crop need never be less.

Sir Hall Caine's death emphasizes the shifting of critical standards. When Cosmopolitan Magazine, shortly after W. R. Hearst bought it, published Hall Caine's "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, while admiring Hall Caine's genius, said the story wasn't for family reading.

And Ella Wheeler Wilcox, writing in the New York Evening Journal, as Dr. Parkhurst had done, said that not to read "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" was to remain needlessly ignorant. Cosmopolitan's circulation increased.

Now, Hall Caine and Ella Wheeler Wilcox are together, and perhaps talking about that very mild novel.

An American from China admires "the Chinese dogged patience and courage even in terrific floods that have made 30,000,000 homeless, 15,000,000 destitute."

It seems strange that after five thousand years of civilization, China has not learned to control the Yangtze and other great rivers.

Then we remember, humbly, that with all our machinery and money, we haven't learned to control the Mississipi.

Machinery will do it eventually, however, and, as the late William Boyce Thompson predicted, will store up surplus flood waters in some inland sea, saving them for use in drouth.

The American Chemical Society, gathered at Buffalo, N. Y., is told by Professors Smyth of Princeton, Andrews of Johns Hopkins and Drury of Columbia University that with the radio men can hear the "Dance of the Finite," in other words, the noise made by molecules and atoms as they move mysteriously.

Each atom "sings its own melody and dances its own individual dance." The ancients talked of the "music of the spears," meaning music produced by the rolling stars.

Man may become a complex animal, one ear listening to atoms, with the other to suns a million million times as big as the earth; one eye studying infinitely through the telescope, the other the finite "infra-world" through the microscope.

At the same time both ears and both eyes will tell him what is going on in his neighborhood. All interesting, but you hardly have time for it these depression days.

While Gandhi is on his way to Europe, with a hand loom, two goats and a loin cloth, to which he has added a homespun blanket to keep off the ocean's winds, Hindus kill a Mohammedan policeman and Mohammedans burn Hindu shops.

The Hindu eats pork. The Mohammedan hates him for that, as much as the Hindu hates the Mohammedan for eating beef.

To make a strong nation out of 300,000,000 with whom religious hatred is the strongest

CITIES JOIN TO PROTEST AUTO RATES

Somerville Mayor Proposes a New Plan; Bitter Fight Is Due at Hearing

State-wide protests against the proposed new rates for auto compulsory insurance gained new momentum today as city and town officials, civic organizations and leaders in the automobile world swung into action.

From all sides, throughout the State, plans were announced for a concerted attack upon the proposed increase.

Mayor John J. Murphy, of Somerville, visited Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, at the State House, and took out preliminary papers for an initiative petition to repeal the present insurance law.

Other developments were:

1—Announcement by Mayor Murphy that he would propose the substitution of an insurance system under State supervision for the present law.

2—Chicopee Insurance agents will meet to file a strong protest against the new rates.

3—Mayor Michael J. O'Hara of Worcester wired Governor Ely protest of the city of Worcester against the proposed increase.

4—Medford Board of Aldermen passed a resolution of protest which will be sent to Governor Ely.

5—Former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, under whose administration the law became effective, registered his protest in a terrific tirade.

STOLE TO AID PRETTY GIRL HE WOOED

Gardella Says Pity for Her Hungry Three-Year-Old Child Made Him Turn Outlaw

Love of a 23-year-old widow and pity for her 3-year-old child, crying with hunger, impelled Theodore Gardella, 22-year-old petting bandit, to join a hold-up band.

Such was the dramatic story told today to the Boston Evening American by Gardella, after he had been held in Municipal Court for the grand jury for armed robbery, while police were rounding up other members of the band that has terrorized petting parties for eight months.

Gardella, held in $10,000 on a single charge, has told all to police, as a result of which three other alleged members of the band, one of them dying in Symmes Hospital in Arlington, are under arrest.

He is Gerald Manley, 17, who was shot in the abdomen by Patrolman Clarence Forrest of Belmont while he and two other youths were attempting to hold up the policeman and a girl in a parked car.

When doctors at the hospital said today that Manley probably would not live 24 hours longer, members of his family were notified and they gathered at the bedside.

WON'T NAME WIDOW

Seated in the detention room of Malden court, after his arraignment, and while waiting to be taken to East Cambridge jail in lieu of bail, young Gardella declared:

"I did it for a pretty girl named Mary. I won't tell you her last name or where she lives because I don't want to get her into trouble. She had nothing to do with this and didn't know where I got the money I gave her.

"She is a widow with a three-year-old kid and she hasn't got a dime. I love her and I couldn't bear to see the kid starve and hear him crying."

Gardella, although wearing a

Smiling and apparently carefree, Theodore Gardella, 22-year-old "petting" bandit, puffed away at a cigarette today after he was held in $10,000 for robbery, and told why he turned outlaw. Love for a pretty widow and pity for her three-year-old hungry child drove him to holding up couples in parked cars, he said. "I did it for a girl named Mary," Gardella said. (Staff photo.)

2 SAVED AFTER NIGHT AT SEA

Coast guards of the City Point lifesaving station today rescued a South Boston man, a boy and a dog after an all-night search for them in stormy waters.

The rescued pair are Joseph Martos and Patrick Patterson, both of Ondow ter., who went fishing yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Martos refused to leave the City Point shore all night while the search was on.

The first search failed, but putting out a second time a boatload of coast guards found the missing pair drifting toward the rocks at Nahant. They were towed to South Boston.

DEATH CODE OF POWERS FOUND

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 2—A "death code" by which "Cow Face" Harry F. Powers recorded the progress of his love correspondence with women throughout the country was found today by detectives investigating the killings of two women and three children.

Letters received in response to his lure of wealth and affection were marked and indexed for filing.

A fragment of one envelope, apparent marked the writer to die in the "slaughter house."

The mark was "P-15." It bore the notation "graveyard" and was found on letters from the two women he killed, Mrs. Dorothy P. Lemke of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Asda R. Eicher, Chicago.

LEMKE CASE FIRST

The first legal machinery which Powers will face will be that charging him with the murder of Mrs. Lemke, according to Prosecutor Morris.

"The strongest case is that of Mrs. Lemke, and if Powers elects to be tried separately, I will elect the Lemke case," said Morris.

Information that Powers had

DEATH FOR GALLO SET FOR NEXT MONTH

Convicted Slayer of Fantasia Is Found Sane and His Doom Is Sealed

Samuel Gallo is sane, a

Being sane, he must die in the electric chair.

The Boston Evening American learned exclusively today that the records of the Bridgewater State Hospital, where he has been under observation since mid-July, show the convicted slayer of Joseph Fantasia to be in full possession of his mental faculties.

That report will be made to Governor Ely, the third governor to be concerned with the fantastic Fantasia case, and Gallo will be executed in the State Prison late in October or early in November.

ELY HIS ONLY HOPE

Commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment by Governor Ely is the only hope of escape from the electric chair, the Supreme Court having ruled there was no error at his trial.

Although the Sacco-Vanzetti case was attended by many far-reaching reactions, the Fantasia-Gallo affair produced more bizarre developments than any other capital case in Massachusetts jurisprudence.

Fantasia, it will be recalled, met his death in Prince st., North End, on June 13, 1927.

Gangi Cero of Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested and tried for the crime. He was convicted and sentenced to the electric chair.

Miss Philomena Romano, 24, of the North End was one of the principal state witnesses at Cero's trial.

Meanwhile Gallo had been arraigned after confessing with a Cero trial will end in an effort to save Cero.

GIRL A DUPE? PERJURY

He was sent to Charles st. jail, where Cero was awaiting sentence and there was stabbed by Cero, who believed Gallo had double-crossed him.

Cero was placed in the death house and one hour before he was to take the short walk from which no man walks back, Miss Romano confessed that she had perjured herself at his trial and that she actually saw Gallo fire the shot that killed Fantasia.

Her statement was taken by Dist.

POPE AND DUCE AGREE ON NEW CHURCH ACCORD

15,000 CLUBS TO REOPEN UNDER PACT

Activities of the Young Catholic Organizations Will Now Be Limited

Rome, Sept. 2 (AP)—A final accord was reached by Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini today in their bitter three months' controversy over the Catholic Action Clubs, clarifying the conditions of the Lateran treaty and the concordat.

It reopens 15,000 clubs closed three months ago.

The Pope's youth organizations, thus allowed to resume activities, are restricted to purely religious endeavors without sports or athletics or intrusion into the syndical or trades union fields.

The Italian government announced the agreement of three parts as follows:

The official statement announcing the accord, was as follows:

"As a result of conversations between the Holy See and the Italian government concerning the dissolution of youth clubs attached to the Italian Catholic action and in general their activities, there has been reached an accord with the following terms:

"The Italian Catholic action is essentially diocesan and depends directly from the bishops, who chose the lay and ecclesiastic directors. There may not be chosen persons belonging to parties adverse to the Fascist regime.

"In conformity with its religious and supernatural nature, Catholic action does not concern itself at all with the political and in its external form of organization it will abstain entirey from the traditional nature of political parties.

USE ITALIAN FLAG

"The banner of Catholic action will be the Italian flag.

"Catholic action does not have in its program the formation of professional associations and trade syndicates. It therefore does not contemplate any syndical action.

"Its internal professional sections now existing and contemplated by the law of April 3, 1926, have been organized exclusively for spiritual and religious objects and they intend further to contribute toward the increasingly better functioning of legally constituted syndicalism based on the principle of collaboration of classes and toward the social and national ends that the state in a Catholic country proposes to attain with present organizations.

"The youth clubs depending from Catholic action will call themselves 'Youth Associations of Catholic Action.' These associations can have membership cards and badges corresponding strictly to their religious aims.

LIMIT ACTIVITIES.

"The various accotions shall have no other flags except the Italian flag and their own religious banners.

"These local associations shall abstain from any activity whatever of a sport or athletic nature, limiting themselves to meetings of an educational and recreational character with religious aims."

KLAN CALLS BIG MEETING IN LOWELL

'Secret and Inside Information" to Be Given, Fiery Cross Circular Says

Lowell, Sept. 2—The Klu Klux Klan moved into Lowell today in its New England revival campaign.

Secret notices of a "konclave" tonight were circulated among a selected group.

The circular bears a printed fiery cross and the seal of the Lowell klan.

The meeting will start at 8 o'clock "in darkness," the notice states. It reads:

"By this fiery cross you are hereby summoned to be present at a konclave extraordinary, to be held at Highland Hall, 131 Branch st., in the city of Lowell, Mass., on Sept. 2, 1931, at 8 p. m. Nothing but providential hindrance can justify your failure to attend."

It was signed, "The Imperial Wizard" and "W. Greene, Grand Dragon."

Following the notice the Grand Dragon writes:

"Much inside and secret information will be disclosed at this meeting and all who are interested in the outcome of the 1932 election should be there. Remember K. L. A. S. P. is K. A. K. K. K."

BOY, 15, HELD IN 9 SKILFUL ROBBERIES

Admits Breaks in Cambridge, Brookline and Hull, Police Say

Another series of robberies of stores and homes, previously thought to be the work of an experienced gang, was believed solved with the arrest of another "boy bandit" by Cambridge police today.

John Galvin, 15, of Magazine st., was arrested in Central sq. by Sergt. William A. Curtis and Patrolman William Banett when his actions aroused their suspicion.

Questioned at Cambridge police headquarters, he is said to have confessed nine breaks in Cambridge, Hull and Brookline in the last month.

MYSTIFIES POLICE

The boy, whose activities have so closely resembled the work of experienced crackmen that they mystified police of the three localities, is alleged to have admitted breaking into two summer cottages in Hull, and stealing jewelry valued at $400 and $80 in cash.

Transferring his activities to his home city, Galvin, police say, told of entering the house of Herbert White, 656 Putnam ave., Cambridge, and escaping with a watch and a diamond bracelet, both valued at $100.

Three lunchrooms were next on his list, police say, breaks following in quick succession in the Whittemore Lunch, 561 Memorial Drive, and two in Razen's Lunch, 750 Memorial Drive. At both places his loot totalled $48, a quantity of candy and cigarettes.

GOT ONE SCARE

Ren's Market, 470 Putnam ave., yielded about $25 in foodstuffs, and at his last attempt in Cambridge, at a chain store on Brookline st., he was scared away.

Cambridge police also declare Galvin confessed to a break in a Brookline home, where a pair of opera glasses and a sapphire ring were stolen.

He will be arraigned in Hingham district court tomorrow on the two Hull breaks, and is then expected to be brought to Cambridge for trial before the juvenile court.

Capture of Galvin was effected when the two officers saw him selling articles of value to Cambridge youngsters.

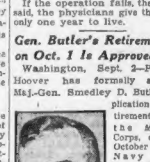
Gen. Butler's Retirement on Oct. 1 Is Approved

Washington, Sept. 2—President Hoover has formally approved Maj.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler's application for retirement from the Marine Corps, effective October 1, the Navy Department has revealed.



Gen. Butler

When Butler goes off the active list, he will bring to a close a colorful career of 33 years' service which carried him wherever the forces of Uncle Sam saw battle.

The "Fighting Quaker," as he was sometimes called, served with the marines in Central America, in China and in Europe during the World War.

Butler's future plans are unrevealed. He has had several offers for lecture tours and to make moving pictures, but it is considered doubtful if he will accept any of these.

Atty. Foley after she had been to Gov. Fuller and Judge Cox of Superior Court.

RESPITED BY FULLER

Gov. Fuller granted a respite and the court granted Cero a new trial. He was removed from the very shadow of the electric chair to await developments.

The first of these developments was the indictment of Gallo for Fantasia's murder. The second was the disappearance of Miss Romano.

Although not jointly indicted, Gallo and Cero went on trial for the murder together, the State contending that Cero fired the death shot as the hired gunman of Gallo, both being equally guilty.

Miss Romano's "confession of perjury" and accusation against Gallo was read to the jury.

The jury, out less than three hours, convicted Gallo and acquitted Cero.

CERO HOUNDED

Cero, who had experienced a living death, went back to Brooklyn. He was looked on as a "squealer" by the gangs and forced out of a dock job. Recently he went back to Italy.

Miss Romano, although never officially located, is reported to have been in Chicago ever since her disappearance here.

Gallo was sentenced to be executed during the week of July 26 after the Supreme Court had ruled against him. State psychiatrists who examined him at Charles st. jail reported him to be apparently insane, the governor and council granted him a respite and he was ordered to Bridgewater for observation.

That period of observation has ended. With it have ended Gallo's hopes and one of Massachusetts' strangest murder cases.

WIFE IS BLUEBEARD'S 'PET'

The man with the "Pig Eyes." The man with the "Cow Face." So police and investigators refer to Harry F. Powers, whom you see with blackened eyes in inset. The scope of search for further victims has widened. You see the killer on his wedding day with his bride, who was Luella Struthers. He referred to her as his "Favorite Wife," his "Pet Wife." He has absolved her from any part in his crimes. Why he picked her out and did not kill her is not explained. This red-haired woman was the first to fall into his hands through matrimonial agencies.

CAR INSURANCE BY STATE URGED

Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, and former registrar of motor vehicles today filed with the clerk of the State House of Representatives a bill for the establishment of a State automobile insurance company. This is the same bill that was defeated last year in the legislature.

The bill states that the Division of Motor Vehicle Insurance, of the registrar's office, would be known a the Massachusetts State Automobile Insurance Co. It would operate in competition to other insurance companies.

A board of directors, composed of three men, would be appointed by the Commissioner of Public Works, subject to approval by the Governor and his council. The Registrar of Motor Vehicles would investigate each accident. No charges would be made the company for acquisition, field supervision or inspetion.

BOTH WAYS

Mexico, City, Sept. 2 (INS)—High protective tariffs enacted by the United States and trade barriers set up by Mexico to counteract them cut sharply into the Mexican government's income through a heavy drop in customs receipts, President Rubio declared today.

FIGHT STARTED BY YOUNGMAN

A session of the Governor's Council today is understood to have developed a warm debate over a threat of the Federal Government to withdraw $162,000 federal aid for construction of 27,000 feet of highway between Greenfield and Gill.

The contract was awarded yesterday by the Council to a Massachusetts company in preference to a lower out-of-state bidder. The U. S. bureau of public roads informed the state department of public works it could not be a party to a contract made purely on place of residence.

Public Works Commissioner Frank E. Lyman attended today's meeting. It was intimated Lieut.-Gov. William S. Youngman, who presided, introduced a resolution that the Council hereafter keep hands off contracts involving federal aid, and heated arguments followed.

King Carol Picks a 'Trusty' to Make Love for Him

BANKER TO WOO PRINCESS FOR ROYAL BRIDAL

If He Succeeds, Without Entanglements, King of Italy Will Have New Son-in-Law

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Staff Correspondent

Rome, Sept. 2—Playing the role of a modern Miles Standish, King Carol II of Rumania has ordered a trusted emissary to Rome to woo an Italian royal princess in his behalf.

The object of the Rumanian monarch's affections is Princess Maria Francesca, seventeen years of age and the youngest daughter of King Victor Emanuel of Italy.

Princess Maria

The "John Alden" entrusted with the delicate task of laying his sovereign's heart at the feet of the youthful princess is M. Manoilesca, governor of the National Bank of Rumania and a close friend of King Carol.

If Manoilesca successfully presses his monarch's suit and convinces the pretty princess Carol's kingly and husbandly virtues, the marriage will take place in October. It will be followed shortly after by the couple's coronation as king and queen of Rumania.

Princess Maria, one of the most attractive members of any European reigning house, has been mentioned prominently as a consort for Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Hungarian throne.

This proposed match, however, has been cancelled, as Otto's chances of the kingship are fading steadily.

VICTIM AND HIS KIDNAPERS

Strains of music from a night club near the apartment house where he lay for 17 days captive of a band of kidnapers registered so indelibly on the brain of Charles Rosenthal, wealthy young New York broker, that he was able to recognize the rhythm of the orchestra and lead detectives to the place. Four persons are under arrest, charged with the kidnaping, Nicholas Green, a Negro hotel proprietor, his wife Bettina, who police say was used to lure Rosenthal into the kidnaping; Albert Sileo and Theodore Adolphi. Green and the girl are shown in separate views, and Rosenthal, his attorney, Edward Nathan, and two of the kidnapers are shown in the center photo. (International Newsreel photo.)

TIGER'S HEART IN RING GAME, WIFE ADDS

Mate Is Still Loyal to Former Boxing Champ, Despite the Pending Divorce Suits

By ROBERT HEREFORD
(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service)

St. Louis, Sept. 2—"Jack Dempsey can do anything he makes his mind up to do—and if he really wants to 'come back' to the ring then his opponents are in for an interesting time."

This is the frank opinion of the woman who won the heart of the man who conquered the boxing world.

Of course Jack's comeback campaign is not so as vitally interesting to Estelle Taylor, the former world champion's wife, as it might have been several years ago. The couple are suing each other for divorce.

But that doesn't prevent Estelle from still admiring the man who once chose above all others to be her mate.

HEART IN THE GAME

If one may use the term "square shooter" in describing one of the most beautiful and talented actresses of the stage and screen, then that is the impression Miss Taylor gave as she spoke frankly and fairly discussed Dempsey.

"After a woman has been married to a man, no matter what trouble's before, there is always a deep-seated something which keeps one from wanting to hurt him," is the way Estelle expressed her feelings.

Today, at a local theater where she is appearing on the stage, she said:

"I think really though that 'comeback to the ring' is a rather inaccurate phrase to use in connection with Jack Dempsey. He was never away from the ring. He may not have been engaged in championship fights, but Jack Dempsey lived, ate and breathed boxing day in and day out.

KEEPS SELF TRIM

"There were sometimes six months in a year when he would be away from me engaged in his boxing interests—refereeing and the like.

"He was always happiest when he was with his pugilistic companions or when he was engaged in work connected with boxing.

"As for Jack's getting back into condition, why, he was never out of condition. Jack was always working out at some gymnasium or other and his frequent refereeing engagements likewise kept him in trim. That is one of the things one couldn't help admiring about Jack, he is such a fine physical specimen of a man.

CAN COME BACK

"When Jack sets his mind on anything he is not happy until his goal is achieved or until he is thoroughly convinced that he is seeking the impossible. And it usually takes a rather strong conviction to deter Jack. So if he has put his mind and really set his heart on a comeback I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see him champion again.

"As for Jack's age—he is 36—I frankly believe that he is five years younger than the average man of his years. Everyone knows his boyish nature—and this mental freshness and youthfulness has kept him from ageing as swiftly as other men."

YOUTHS ADMIT 2 MORE HOLDUPS

Admissions that they had participated in at least two other holdups were made today by John P. Doran, 20, of Highland ave., Somerville, and Augustine J. McDonough, 20, of Ashmont pk., Dorchester, according to Somerville police.

They were held in $25,000 each in Somerville court on a charge of armed robbery of a Union sq. real estate office.

Chief Damery said McDonough confessed holding up and robbing Arthur Berg, proprietor of a Gallivan blvd. filling station on August 17, and also the holdup of Joseph Walsh, a Milton taxicab driver, on August 25.

Doran named McDonough, who was arrested at his home today as his accomplice in both robberies. A .38-caliber revolver and cartridges were found in McDonough's room, police said.

Doran, police allege, threw a .38-calibre revolver away

Doctor Defends Pie as Healthy Dish for Schools Pupils

Detroit, Sept. 2 (AP)—Dainty dishes will come and go, but pie is here to stay.

So ruled the board of education after a lively debate.

Mrs. Laura Osborn proposed elimination of that dessert from school lunch rooms, claiming it is "ruinous" to digestion.

But Dr. Burt R. Shurly promptly protested.

"The pie is a grand old American institution," he said. "Children have been raised on pie for 100 years, and the American child is a pretty healthy specimen."

U. S. DEFICIT IS $396,365,000

Washington, Sept. 2 (INS)—The government's deficit Aug. 31 was $396,365,000, compared with $240,730,000 the same day last year.

The public debt amounted to $16,863,781,000, a decrease of $62,000,000 during August, and a jump of $676,000,000 during the year, the Treasury Department announced today.

General receipts during the first two months of the fiscal year which started July 1, amounted to $230,399,000, a decrease of $11,000,000 for the same month in 1930.

Customs receipts during the two months increased $14,000,000 to $76,719,000 while income tax collections netted $46,579,000, a loss of about $8,000,000.

CHURCH ROW IS AIRED IN COURT

Depression—mark you—has no place in the scheme of things concerned with the Rev. Anthony Tkach, pastor of St. Michael's Russian-Greek Orthodox Church, inc., of Lynn.

Drawing no salary, at the rate of $60 a month, since January 1, the Rev. Tkach raised his "no salary" to $75 a month, but then relented and dropped the negative emolument to $60 per again.

It all came out today at the resumed hearing in Lynn before Atty. John Hammond as master, on petition of corporation members to oust the Rev. Tkach—this time for actually collecting money, but for the church funds, and in an allegedly irregular manner.

The church corporation and the Rev. Tkach have been "that way" since Jan. 1, when the pastor was told he needn't bother to come around any more.

However, the Rev. Mr. Tkach had other plans and has been around ever since preaching and all that, even if to empty pews, and on several occasions the situation has reached the status of a police case and reserves have been sent to quell the disturbances.

The petition brought by the corporation had an earlier hearing, which was incompleted, the hearing being resumed today.

RUBIO NEUTRAL IN CHURCH WAR

Mexico City, Sept. 2—The federal government's announced determination not to intervene in the Vera Cruz religious controversy was received with dismay in Catholic circles today.

President Ortiz Rubio in his annual address at the opening session of Congress yesterday made his first definite reply to requests for intervention with the statement that the Vera Cruz Legislature had acted within its rights in passing an anti-church measure. He said the government's position must be neutral.

Missing Hawaiian's Body Found in Giant Shark

Honolulu, Sept. 2—Finding of the body of Sadao Nakatus, missing merchant, inside of a giant shark, cleared up the mystery of the disappearance of Nakatus and Minoru Kanakawa today.

Both men, merchants here, went fishing Sunday morning and dropped from sight. Airplanes and boats were used in the search, but found only the overturned skiff used by the men.

Three fishermen brought two sharks ashore today, and upon cutting them open found Nakatus body inside one of them.

TOWN FATHER'S CIDER DUMPED

Springfield, Sept. 2—Ninety-five barrels of hard cider were seized recently by prohibition enforcement officers at the farm of Selectman Daniel L. Wood of Cheshire.

The 95 barrels were returned to Selectman Wood by the federal agents today. On court order.

Perhaps Selectman Wood should feel good about it, but he doesn't. The barrels came back empty.

The cider, 11,000 gallons of it—and you can mow a lot of hay on that—went down the Springfield sewer pipes this morning.

DRY WHO USED DECOY STAYS

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock today reprimanded a Buffalo dry agent, Ralph Dell, who was accompanying a young girl who was arrested for intoxication, while he was getting evidence in Buffalo speakeasies.

Woodcock said that because of Dell's excellent record in the army and as a dry agent he would be returned to duty.

A court charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor is still pending against Dell.

"I am inclined to think," Woodcock said, "that Dell was not so much to blame as his immediate superiors. In fact some measure of blame should rest with me for not anticipating such a situation and issuing an order against the use of women as informers as has been done."

MONEY BATTLE TO BE RENEWED

The affairs of Mrs. Sarah C. Shapley Renfrew, formerly of Newtonville, which traced a spectacular path through the courts for more than 20 years, will be given another airing next Wednesday in Probate Court, Springfield, it was announced today.

Atty. Gen. Warner was notified of the hearing, which is over the petition of Harold M. Perkins of Springfield for appointment as conservator of Mrs. Renfrew, who is now confined in the Manhattan State Hospital, New York.

Atty. Albert R. Mackusick, of Boston, who for 20 years has been trustee of the Shapley estate, for which Mrs. Renfrew waged a long and losing legal battle, will oppose the petition.

Mrs. Renfrew twice obtained her release from insane asylums in this state, and during the time that she was confined in Tres. she fought for possession of the estate of her first husband, George A. Shapley.

It was finally necessary to determine her legal status, and on order of former Gov. Fuller, hearings were held and she was adjudged insane.

Pres. Angell of Yale at Rites for Moore

Funeral services for Clifford Herschel Moore, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences at Harvard since 1925, were held in Christ Church, Cambridge, today. Dean Willard L. Sperry, of the Theological School, and Dr. James Hardy Ropes, Hollis professor of Divinity, officiated.

A group of distinguished educators, headed by Pres. A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, and including Pres. James R. Angell, of Yale and Prof. Edward Capps, professor of classics, at Princeton, acted as honorary pall bearers. Burial was in Mt. Auburn cemetery.

SHE HAD A TALE TO TELL

"Little Eva" Mackay, one of the witnesses who testified against Chile Acuna, rescinded her testimony yesterday and said she had given it at the behest of a group of crooked politicians in a plot to discredit Samuel Seabury's graft investigation in New York. Acuna is the man who revealed that police had preyed upon many women, including several who were innocent of wrongdoing but were "framed and railroaded" to jail. (International Newsreel photo.)

POWERS' WIFE IN WEDDING BELLS

The wife of Harry F. Powers, Clarksburg, W. Va., Bluebeard, was one of 1500 members of "Wedding Bells" and "Get Acquainted Club" fostered by a matrimonial paper printed in Boston, police revealed today.

The paper is the Social News and Wedding Bells, published by Albert Nettle, 63, of Warrenton st., South End. Called to headquarters today by Deputy McDevitt, Nettle promised to discontinue publication, according to the police. No charge was placed against him.

Powers' wife is listed as Mrs. Strother, 111 Quincy st., Clarksburg, W. Va. The first name is not given, but Mrs. Powers' name was Luella Strother.

Nettie told police he had taken over the paper two years ago and sold it for 10 cents a copy. There was a supplement of spicy stories also selling for 10 cents.

Membership in the "Get Acquainted Club" sold for $5.

BAIL NEAR FOR 'RED FLAME'

Providence, R. I., Sept. 2—Qualification of seven persons to act as bondsmen for Ann Buriak, "Red Flame" textile strike leader, by Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman, today made the release of the 23-year-old girl agitator a matter of hours.

At the State Prison, in Cranston, where Miss Buriak has been imprisoned since last Saturday in default of $10,000 bail, officials stated that they expected the bondsmen to appear before the bail commissioner some time this afternoon.

Police of Central Falls and Pawtucket, scenes of the recent strike riots, were prepared for additional trouble in the advent of Miss Buriak's release.

CRIME HUNTERS IN 'HUDDLE'

Commissioner Hultman and Supt. Crowley went into a lengthy "huddle" at police headquarters today in connection with complete crime reports recently demanded by Mayor Curley, it was rumored.

That section of the report affecting the personnel of the department and trial board actions is practically completed.

The remainder of the report, involving major crime in the city, is being prepared by Supt. Crowley.

A rumor that he was encountering trouble in gathering the data was denied by Bernard Scanlan, Hultman's secretary.

TRY TO GET BACK VICTIM'S $4000

Worcester, Sept. 2—Relatives of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Northboro, who was slain by Harry F. Powers or Clarksburg, W. Va., mail order Bluebeard, took steps today to get back the $4000 Powers obtained from her.

Mrs. Lemke's sister, Mrs. Gretchen Fleming of Northboro, and the latter's husband, Charles A. Fleming, announced they had engaged counsel to start legal action at Clarksburg.

Powers had $2000 cash when arrested and is said to have $4000 more in safe-keeping.

When she left Worcester with Powers, Mrs. Lemke drew $4,287.22 from local banks.

Bluebeard Jailed Once for Theft on Eloping

Chicago, Sept. 2 (AP)—Six years ago Harry F. Powers, then using the name Joe Gildow, wooed a Hammond, Ind., woman and spent a summer in jail because the wooing cost her $5400.

Miss Lena Fellows, the court records showed, accepted Gildow's proposal of marriage and he induced her to withdraw $1600 from a savings bank, buy a new automobile, and elope.

They stopped at a filling station. Miss Fellows was wearing two diamond rings worth $1000 each and had $1800 worth of securities in a suitcase. At Gildow's suggestion she placed the rings in the suitcase. She stepped from the car for a moment and when she returned he and the case were gone.

"PIG EYES" OF KILLER SHOW CUNNING

(Special to the Boston Evening American)

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 2—Harry Powers' eyes are blackened now, his cheeks bruised and puffed, his lips still swollen from being smashed against his teeth.

But his eyes still have in them a glint of animal cunning. He is a pudgy, squat little man, his triangularly-shaped head just a trifle too big, his legs just a trifle too short, for his body.

His hands are pudgy, with short, short fingers—not at all the long, jointed bony structures Death's hands are supposed to be.

SEES THINGS, HE SAYS

"I got a funny shaped head," he says.

"I see things. All the time. I see things."

Maybe, his guards say, he does. If he doesn't, they agree, he should.

Apparently, however, they don't disturb his sleep.

Nor, according to his guards, does he give much time, or thought, to remorse.

Too bad to kill 'em? Yes — but he speaks of it as a farmer regrets having found it necessary to chop off the head of one of his prize hens.

He is not an educated man. Neither brains nor physical attractiveness—how did he do it? That is a favorite topic of conjecture here, among his guards, among the townfolk.

A trained psychologist might not discover a great deal of interest in Powers. Scientifically, he is a pretty well catalogued type—the pendulous nose, the thick underlip denoting greedy passion, the tight, thin upper lip denoting cruelty.

FOREHEAD NOT LOW

His forehead is not low, yet somehow gives the impression that it is low. You don't see his neck when you first look at him. He has a slight double chin. His ears are set far back—too far—and they are too small for the size of his head.

Everything about him seems out of proportion, somehow. His feet are not, as you might expect, small, but are large. They match his body, but not his legs.

His voice is a throaty, whining whir. Perhaps, though, that is not its normal tone.

The authorities here have been studying his letters, but his letters, they say, do not give much of an index to his character aside from what already is known, or becomes readily apparent in conversation with him. They are the letters, perhaps, that a lonely—a very lonely—woman might read.

The handwriting is fair—a bold, loose slant. The words run together.

"My wife can have anything within reason that money can buy, but above all I expect to give her that true love and devotion for wich—he spells it 'wich'—we all crave so much."

SHREWD IN LETTERS

That one sentence alone, investigators for the county prosecutor's office say, displays the uncanny shrewdness of the man.

"My wife"—the proposal of honorable marriage. "Can have anything . . . that money can buy"—a promise of wealth and luxury. "Within reason"—indicating that here will be a careful husband, thoughtful, adoring, but no spendthrift. "But above all I epect to give her"—he will give it, you observe—not he expects it to give him. Love! Romue! "That true love and devotion for which we all crave so much"—the final touch—two heartbeat beat as one—the perfect seritising appeal!

been seen with Stamatifos Sfikas, 44, Clarksburg shoe shine parlor owner, shortly before Sfikas disappeared in June, speeded investigation of that affair, just as the finding of a trunk containing firearms and 50 photographs of women, gave further impetus to search for other possible victims of the pudgy love-maker.

HUNT GOES FAR

The hunt has spread to Miller, S. D., Vanalia, Ill., and Mansfield, O., where Powers was believed to haye lived as "Joseph Gildeau" about the year 1924.

Digging around the "slaughter-house" was halted pending the finding of more clues to possible missing women among Powers' love-lungry correspondents.

Meanwhile the bodies of Mrs. Eicher and her children, Harry, Greta and Anabel were being taken to Pittsburgh for cremation, their ashes then to be taken to Park Ridge, Ill., their home.

The United States government today entered the ever-deepening mystery believing that dope selling was a part of Powers' business.

DOPE RING LINKED

Narcotic Agent Forner, operating in the Clarksburg area, is convinced that Powers drugged Mrs. Eicher and Mrs. Lemke.

Furthermore, he believes that Powers trafficked in "dope" in the vicinity which has become the southern center of a huge narcotic syndicate.

The house of Powers where Mrs. "Lulu" Powers and her sister, Eva Belle Strother, are now staying, will be searched for a cache of morphine or heroin.

Detective Southern will again take Mrs. Powers and her sister into custody for questioning, and federal agents will take part.

Chief Duckworth said today that Mrs. Powers told him this morning she was "through with Harry Powers—I wouldn't have him turned loose for a hundred million dollars."

Duckworth said she was "confident from the evidence that he betrayed us both," referring to herself and her sister.

SUSPICIOUS OF WIFE

Police are dissatisfied with the stories Mrs. Powers and her sister have told. The women have denied any knowledge of Powers before her married "Lulu" Strother in 1927.

Yet letters from "Lulu" to Powers in 1926 and 1927 reveal full knowledge of what he was doing and where he was working.

In addition, Mrs. Powers has declared Powers and she were friends since childhood, while her own handwriting in the letters discloses that she had never met him before and, in fact, furnished a full description of herself to her mail-order suitor.

One of the love letters written by Mrs. Powers to her husband before they were married asked whether Powers would tell "Mr. and Mrs. Rogers" of their wedding.

Powers has said that Mrs. Eicher had gone to Colorado with a man named "Rogers."

NOT A BIT JEALOUS

On August 9, 1926, eight months before they were married at Oakland, Md., she (Mrs. Powers) wrote to him:

"Oh, listen, you never 'fessed up to me how many ladies you are corresponding with. Now tell me, Cutie, for there isn't a drop of jealous blood in my little fat body."

Wife Has Husband in Court, Then Pays to Save Him

Brockton, Sept. 2—After bringing her husband, William, into court on a charge of attacking her, Mrs. Jennie Verbitski, 35, of Summer st., saved him from a 20-day sojourn at the county jail in Plymouth by paying his fine.

Mrs. Verbitski exhibited a swollen face to the court and William was promptly found guilty and was ordered to pay a $10 fine.

- This pays for any electric refrigerator in our stock $200 or under in price.
- For refrigerators costing more than $200 use the identical SAVING-PURCHASE PLAN but pay slightly more per day.

Think what a trifling sum—25c a day! Just like paying for ice only you are actually SAVING the money. 25c a day NOT ONLY PROVIDES YOU WITH MODERN REFRIGERATION but PAYS FOR YOUR ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR as well.

Astonishing—yes, indeed, but it's a fact and since it has become realized by our customers, we actually begin to anticipate difficulty in getting ENOUGH electric refrigerators to supply the immediate demand.

At the right we illustrate the R. H. White Company SAVING-PURCHASE PLAN bank, issued to each refrigerator purchaser. These banks hold 30 quarters, 1 for each day in the month. Instead of paying for ice each day, deposit a quarter in your SAVE and OWN bank and at the end of the month you have your complete monthly payment for your refrigerator. Then bring or send it in to the R. H. White Company to be credited to your account.

Exactly the same SAVING-PURCHASE PLAN principle will buy one of our famous General Electric or Majestic refrigerators except you deposit a few cents more per day.

REBELS SEIZE 6 CHILE WARSHIPS IN MUTINY

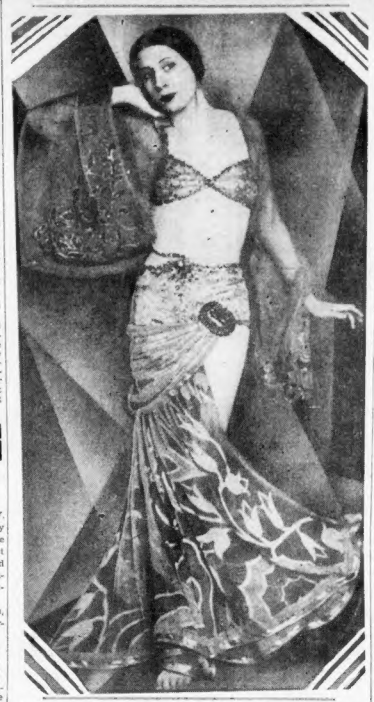
Coquimbo, Chile, Sept 2 (AP)—Six fighting ships of the Chilean fleet were in the hands of mutinous crews today and their officers were held prisoner until the government agrees to cancel scheduled reductions in pay.

A group of non-commissioned officers were directing the fleet's activities in the harbor from the bridge of the flagship La Torre. They have issued an ultimatum calling on the government to abandon salary cuts within 48 hours.

Energetic measures to stamp out the mutiny were pledged today after a meeting of the cabinet and leaders of all parties in Santiago.

High naval officials were ordered to fly here to investigate the movement. It is believed the troubles may be partly settled when the mutineers learn that the government never intended to reduce salaries of 3000 pesos (about $360) or less in view of the fact that most of the sailors come within that bracket.

BEAUTY A BULL FIGHTER



Spain knows how to pick its bull fighters. Here's the proof of the picking. Perhaps you didn't know that Spain has female bull fighters. They have. Mark Senorita Vaneio (above), right down as one of them. You're right, she does not appear in bull fights with this costume. It might "slay" the poor bull. (Underwood and Underwood.)

BANK THIEF HAS $500 LEFT OF $1,500,000

Chicago, Sept. 2—Walter E. Wolf, church-goer and family man, embezzled nearly two million dollars from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co., the nation's fourth largest bank, but never profited by more than $500.

His stolen fortune went down the greased skids of the stock and grain pits of Wall Street.

This was disclosed today as Wolf willingly assisted authorities seeking to learn the exact amount of his defalcations.

His home-loving wife and 12-year-old daughter, hitherto unaware of his dealings, meantime took refuge with relatives and refused to be interviewed.

It was feared Wolf's total embezzlements may mount over $2,000,000. He admitted taking $1,500,000.

"I am glad to get this load off my mind," he said. "It has made me miserable. After I help the bank recover what can be recovered the authorities can do anything they like with me."

The officials said Wolf had confessed to carrying on his defalcations by using an audit-proof system over a period of 12 years.

Wolf is accused of using securities owned by customers of the bank. The customer received a receipt. A record was made for the bank. But when Wolf took a bond he would also take the record that went with it. Thus, so far as the bank was concerned, there would be no record.

These bonds were placed by Wolf with brokers as margin for his speculations, the officials said. When a bond had to be accounted for, Wolf would get it back, substituting another.

Wolf was forced to commit his major thefts during the stock flurry of 1929.

An official of Lloyds of London, which bonds the bank's employes, says the claim is the largest of its kind on record.

Quinn Out of Danger, Says His Physician

Several weeks of complete rest will bring about the recovery of former Mayor Edward A. Quinn of Cambridge, his physician, Dr. William F. Noonan, said today.

The ex-mayor's recuperation will probably be slow, but he is "out of danger," Dr. Noonan said. The patient was stricken with a heart attack ten days ago.

SOUTH BOSTON MOURNS PRIEST

Stores will be closed in South Boston Friday morning while hundreds attend funeral services for the Rt. Rev. Mgr. George J. Patterson, beloved pastor of St. Vincent's Church, who died yesterday at the rectory in his 80th year.

Cardinal O'Connell will preside at the solemn high mass of requiem and will pronounce final absolution.

The mass will be sung by the Rev. Michael J. Scanlan, pastor of St. Rose's Church, Chelsea, who will be assisted by the Rev. Thomas J. Brennan, chaplain of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, as deacon, and the Rev. Edward J. McKenna of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, South Boston, as subdeacon.

The Rev. Mortimer E. Twomey, pastor of St. Eulalia's Church, South Boston, will deliver the eulogy, and the Rev. Harry M. O'Connell of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross will be master of ceremonies. The mass will be sung by the seminary choir under the direction of the Rev. J. Walter Lambert.

The body will lie in state in the church from 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon until 9 at night and members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society will serve as guard of honor.

Weather Puts Off Cleveland Air Race

They will meet again tonight to decide whether weather reports are favorable for starting tomorrow.

Lindberghs Guests of Japanese Author

Karuizawa, Japan, Sept. 2 (AP)—A chilly rain outside and a log fire in their temporary home here today brought to Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh a perfect combination for quiet and rest. The Lindberghs were luncheon guests of Dr. and Mrs. Inazo Nitobe. Dr. Nitobe is the author of "Bushido, the Soul of Japan."

In the evening the fliers dined with W. Cameron Forbes, American ambassador.

RADIO FAILS TO FIND WILKINS

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 2 (INS)—The Arctic Bureau of the Norwegian government today announced that no alarm should be felt for the safety fo the polar submarine of Sir Hubert Wilkins, because the submarine may have been prevented from radio communication with the outside world.

A magnetic wall may have intervened between the Nautilus and the principal radio stations, thus rendering any radio signals from the Nautilus inaudible. Also there is a possibility that the Nautilus' wireless equipment may be disabled.

It was rumored here that an amateur radio operator at Tromsoe, Norway, had established contact with the Nautilus, but this could not be confirmed.

Daniel H. Collins Ill on Visit to Ireland

Word from Skibereen, Ireland, tells of the critical illness of U. S. Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Daniel H. Collins of Boston.

According to a cablegram received by his son, Desmond, a Boston architect, the deputy is suffering from a complication of diseases.

Collins left here a month ago to meet another son, who is a student at Oxford University in England, and return home with him.

Quincy Boys Back; Spent Night in Boat

Fear for the safety of two Quincy boys, reported missing in their sailboat, was dispelled today when the boat, with the boys in it, was found anchored off Winthrop.

John Huerth, 16, son of Charles H. Huerth of Royal st. and his chum, S. LeBlanc, started out from the Wollaston Yacht Club yesterday. Today they explained that weather was bad and they decided to stay off Winthrop over night.

U. S. Rushes Aid to 3 Marooned on Island

Washington, Sept. 2 (INS)—Coast guard cutters from San Diego, Cal., were ordered to go to the relief of two men and a woman stranded on Guadalope island, 120 miles off southern California.

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard gave the order after appeal from Mrs. J. A. Woodcock, who said her husband, Orville Lindsay, and a Mrs. Bradshaw were marooned without food.

Woman Bequeaths $12,000 to Charity

Springfield, Sept. 2 (AP)—The will of Clara F. Hall, filed today, contains bequests of $100,000, of which $12,000 goes to public organizations.

The third Congregational Society of this city is left $5000; Hampden County Children's Air Association, $3000; Home for Friendless Women and Children, $2000; American International College, $1000, and $1000 in smaller gifts.

100,000 MORE DIE IN FLOODS

Shanghai, Sept. 2 (AP)—American missionaries estimated today at least 100,000 persons had perished in the flood water of Northern Kiangsu province, and that probably 2,000,000 others were doomed to die there of starvation and exposure.

Arriving here from the devastated area, they said the flood, caused by the breaking of dykes along the Grand Canal, reached its crest just as the country was receiving reports of the enormous loss of life and property in the overflow of the Yangtse River, 300 miles inland.

BEACON HILL

—by—

"SO THIS IS THE NORTH SHORE GARDEN?" WE exclaimed, last evening as we drove up the road to what used to be the old Salem Country Club. What a change! It was like going onto a brilliantly lighted stage a hundred times bigger than any stage we have ever seen. Huge searchlights played on the pavilion and clubhouse, on the enormous dance floor, which we have been told will accommodate two thousand dancers, on the archery courses, where the ancient art has been revived, and on the driving fields, where numbers of future golf champs were trying their skill. It just didn't seem quite real, and in quiet, old Salem, too.

REBECCA BENSON

We were greeted by our genial host, Mr. A. S. Brown of Salem and "Brown Letters," and in spite of a friendly little matter of a Rolls-Royce, about which we differed a while ago, he was most hospitable and friendly, a GOOD Sport. The only event which we can remember that could equal it in any way was our first visit to Revere Beach, years and years ago.

The colored lights, which outline the dance floor, which looks just like ice and just as slippery, and the large Oriental lantern which hangs over it, all going on and off in sympathy with the music—on when its jazz and off when its a dreamy waltz—was too magical. It almost, but not quite, eclipsed a perfect moon which rode serenely through a light scattering of clouds, just too romantic. Of course, all of this is out-of-doors, as you can guess, and the effect is marvelous.

Dancing in the Moonlight

MR. BROWN SHOWED US ALL OVER THE PLACE, even intriguing us to climb a perilous looking ladder to see the amplifiers, and they appeared almost as large as the State prison and almost as terrifying. From this vantage point we could gaze down on the hundreds of dancers gliding by in the moonlight, pretty girls—SUCH pretty girls swaying in the arms of divine dancers.

WE MUST SAY WE LIKE the modern style of dancing — slithery and dreamy—no Hey Nonnying and Barn Dancing, no bobbing about like corks in water. It must be that all of the giddy old men who used to make life miserable for us when we were young by giddaping all over the place must be reclining in a quiet grave somewhere—we never see them in action nowadays.

Aid Society Fund

THIS WAS SUPPOSED TO be society night, the proceeds to be devoted to the coffers of the M. S. P. C. C. They were conspicuous by their absence, as usual. Some of the daring few really did appear to be enjoying themselves, but it is hard for some people to set as though they are having a good time outside of their own backyard. And when they stay in their own backyards, they are always looking longingly over the fence and wishing they could go out into the wicked, wicked world. Miriam Winslow danced solo a few times and, while we are all for Miriam's terpsichorean talents, we stick to our original ideas about Javanese gymnastics—i. e., that it is a very much over-estimated form of art.

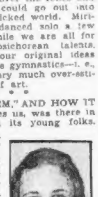
"OLD SALEM," AND HOW IT lives on amazes us, was there in numbers with its young folks. There was a "parking" space for the mighty around which they gathered after dances, but it was a desert without an oasis in sight. A few philanthropical minded did lend their presence, namely, Mrs. Devereaux Barker and party, Mrs. Henry P. Benson and family which included the lovely daughter of the Benson fold, Rebecca, with her fiance, the Bradshaw Langmaids and Johnny Langmaids—everybody has heard of them—the Oscar Ives. Miss Mary's family—Mary had charge of the publicity for the affair—the Kelseys, and let me say right here that Mrs. Seth Kelsey is terribly attractive.



Mary Ives

ONE OF THOSE YOUNG people who is very easy to look at is Leonora Kimball, and she was present with Mary Brown and two swains having a swell time. Kitty Talbot, looking awfully pretty after her vacation, was with Albert Nickerson and the Browns' newly married nephew and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott Kimball, looked too divinely happy for words.

ONE OF THE AMUSING features of the evening—maybe it is done nightly for aught we know—was Rod Nichols casting crumbs before swans in the moonlight. It sounds silly, but it really was beautiful. There is a darling little pond on this Aladdin's place and lovely snow-white swans glide back and forth sedately. If they chose to be fed at midnight before they sing their bedtime swan-song, we're for it. Anything for a change! We, too, can appreciate a duck sandwich at the witching hour in Child's, and we did.

AND WE SAW SOME raucous debs in there, too. But that will do for another day.

Paris Is Facing Style Crisis

By ANN ARDEN

AT THIS season of the year the world awaits the news from Paris in regard to the latest crisis—namely, how is the female population of this crisis ridden planet going to attire itself in the very near future?

THERE NEVER was a question without two sides, and this fall's style proposition is no exception. One faction insists upon reversions to ruffles and panniers of the romantic era to go along with the new Paris hats, whereas the more conservative camp takes into consideration the modern busy woman who is not going to cramp her style and hamper her freedom with dragging ruffles and padded puffs.

* * *

AN EFFECTIVE combination of the two is evident in the trig little costume pictured. The one-piece dress of black crepe has a two-piece effect, the skirt smooth fitting about the hips, with inserted low-placed flares. The jacket style top is double breasted, fastened with ornamental crystal buttons, has self belt, slightly circular peplum about the hips, and folds into Directoire revers. A scarf of white satin, lace edged, emerges each side front, and may supplement revers, form jabot, or tie Ascot style as shown.

THE BLACK felt toque has an upturned brim, slanting tucks on the crown, and a bird ornament of white feathers posed effectively at left side back.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WAAB.

Leaders Plan Many Dinner Parties

With Labor Day approaching, we are looking forward to the annual Myopia Horse Show with pleasurable excitement. As usual, there will be a delightfully full program of various events, alternating hunter and saddle classes with races.

It is one of the biggest attractions of the season that is nearly gone, not only as a horse show that compares most favorably with even larger ones of the spring but as a social affair as well.

Mr. James W. Appleton M. F. H., and charming host of the Myopia Hunt Club, heads the committee in charge, which includes Mr. F. J. Alley, Mr. Frederick Ayer, Jr., Mr. T. G. Frothingham, Mr. Augustus F. Goodwin, who will return from the race meet at Saratoga Springs just in time to enter many of his splendid thoroughbred stable, Mr. J. K. Howard, Mr. G. C. Prince, Mr. R. L. Whitman and Mr. D. P. Rogers.

Mr. Howard has been at the club every day to receive entries, which closed Monday, with every class well filled.

Mrs. Goodwin and her daughter, and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woods (Betty Barrell), are also returning for the show from Saratoga, where they stayed with the Grafton Smiths (Janice Vaughan), who take a house there for a month during the meet. The Smiths also will show some of their hunters, as well as those other well known enthusiasts, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Pingree.

Several dinner parties will be given both the night before and the night of the show, and much generally informal entertaining will be on the program.

MOTHER OF 8 DEFENDS SELF IN DEATH CASE

Amelia Courthouse, Va., Sept. 2 (AP)—Five hours were allotted for argument today before an Amelia County jury received the case of Mrs. Jeston Allen Jones, mother of eight, charged with the murder of her husband, J. Will Jones.

The widow spent five hours on the stand proclaiming her innocence and denying the testimony of her son Robert, who charged her with conspiring with a negro farm hand in the crime and with urging him to kill his father.

FAMILY IS DIVIDED

She termed "untrue" the testimony of Robert and the farm hand, Richard Lee, now serving 20 years for the murder, and asserted that Robert promised to stay out of the case if his demands for money were met.

The case found three daughters and two sons arrayed in defense of Mrs. Jones and denying the testimony of Robert, who volunteered as a state witness and was summoned by the court. Oscar Jones, jointly indicted with his mother, waived immunity to take the stand in her defense.

PAID FOR CRIME

J. Will Jones, a prominent dairyman, was slain January 8 at his farm home near Amelia, the charge from a shotgun entering his head as he lay asleep in bed.

Richard Lee, negro farm hand, arrested and convicted of the murder, said he had been offered $25 to commit the crime by both Mrs. Jones and Oscar Jones.

ARMED MEN GET MONEY BACK

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 2 (AP)—Authorities today investigated the reported invasion of two of the nine suspended A. T. Hudspeth banks by depositors who demanded their money—successfully in one case—as a nation-wide search for the head of the chain got under way.

The first report came from Marshall, Ark. Officials of the First State Bank there said a group of about 25 townsmen and farmers quietly entered the institution after it closed yesterday and firmly told the directors, in meeting, they wanted their money.

Deposits totalling $5000 were paid out to the men. Hudspeth said bank officials received the impression some of the men were armed.

The second report came from the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. at Harrison, Ark. There officials said County Collector Dan Hale and former Sheriff L. M. Martin of Harrison entered the bank armed with pistols.

Informed that the funds were in the vault, protected by a time lock, they locked three officials in the bank and said they would remain until the bank opened at 8 a. m. today. Later they released the officials when given $35,000 in county funds.

Lady Astor Upheld in Tory Resolution

Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 2 (AP)—Official conservatism has rallied to the support of Lady Astor, American-born member of Parliament, in answer to an anonymous attack in a London newspaper advertisement.

The Conservative executive committee of the Sutton division adopted a resolution declaring unabated confidence in Lady Astor. The advertisement sought "a gentleman who would be willing to oppose the present member as an independent Conservative candidate."

Body Hanging to Tree in Billerica

Lowell, Sept. 2—The body of an unidentified man, about 40 years old, was found hanging from a tree near the Old Middlesex Turnpike in Billerica today.

A slip of paper bearing the address 3 North st., Lowell, was found in an inside pocket of the man's coat.

Police went to this address and found a young girl, Jennie Jalkewitz, 14, who will view the body. The suicide may be her father.

They'll have their formal opening on September 18, the night after Mickey Alpert opens his new Seagiadee in the Westminster . . . And Downey, Renard and Tony Wons will be on to do the honors at the opening, as we have already told you . . . The inside from the NBC office in New York is that Lloyd Huntley (whoever he is) will swing the baton at the Statler here this winter . . . Johnny Tuerk—he was here last year managing Bill Brady's "Street Scene"—will be in town soon as manager for Mary Boland in "Vinegar Tree" at the Wilbur.

Elliot Norton is doing the "Gossip of the Town" column for the Post while Bill Cohlens is on vacation . . . Madge Kennedy is on the high seas, from Paris to New York on the Ile de France . . . And are we glad! . . . Miss Kennedy stole away for a brief vacation in Europe before going on the road in "Private Lives" . . . Sophie Tucker's on the same boat, too, headed for home after an absence of more than a year . . . Harry Rosenthal—he was starred here in "June Moon" last February—will be starred in Jed Harris' new musical comedy, "Little Boy Blew" . . . That is, he will be when Jed gets an "angel" for the production . . . The Coast Guard along the N. E. coast has been equipped with new 26-knot picket boats to help them keep Rum Row in line . . . The boats they had before could only make 15 or 16 knots at best.

MISS PRIMM WANDERS

We don't know how she does it, but our Miss Prim—Empress Eugenie hat, flaming red dress and all—is sailing on the "Lapland" Thursday on one of them there six-day cruises to Bermuda or some such place . . . We're afraid that our Miss Prim is becoming one of those professional "riders" . . . We hate to admit it but that's the way it looks to us . . . Here she goes wandering off for six days so all the we can figure out of it is that she must be going just for the ride.

Now we know we're "in the swim" . . . We got one of those chain letters in our mail today . . . We chucked it into the waste basket so we'll probably be killed or fired or something within the next nine days . . . We should have told you this next item away back in the first paragraph when we were talking about the Mayfair and Jacques Renard . . . One of our undercover men in New York reports that Morton Downey, Heien Morgan and Jacques are planning a night club for Broadway this winter . . . If you see a good looking blonde girl sitting with a good looking brunette at the midnight show Friday night at the Old Howard, that will be Mildred Harris Chaplin and Marjorie (Bostonglobe) Adams . . . Mildred has never been there and she and Marjorie are planning to go Friday midnight incognito . . . Didja see the first item in the New England "Chatter" column in "Variety" this week . . . Oops!!

NEW STUDIO SOUGHT

WLOE is dickering with the Statler to take over the old WBZ studios atop that hostelry . . . If it goes through they'll apply to increase their power and put up a fight for a position of major importance on the local ether waves . . . And maybe one of their first big accounts will be Jordan Marsh . . . "Roland Trevor," who wrote "Tell a Vision," the radio ad line that comes to the Majestic next week, is Major J. Andrew White, former radio mogul and the producer of the present opus . . . Henry (Met) Taylor reports that there may be a depression in show business as well as in other lines, but that he'd never know it . . . A year ago, Henry says, he used to be swamped with applications for jobs as lobby entertainers . . . And now, when he's looking for some likely material in that field, he hasn't had an application in months . . . So step up, boys and girls, there's a job there for someone.

Japs Still Refuse Pangborn Air Permit

Tokio, Sept. 2 (AP)—Complications continued today to hold up action by officials on the application of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., for a permit to fly again over Japanese territory preparatory to starting a projected non-stop flight across the Pacific.

The aviators, fined recently for taking photographs over fortified areas, remained optimistic.

TRAPPED MAN DIES IN WELL

Lancaster, Sept. 2 (AP)—Digging down through 30 feet of rock and earth, rescuers early today extricated the body of William Bowers, entombed eight hours near the bottom of a well.

Bowers was installing a new pump in a 100-year-old well when the sides caved in. He was 25 feet below the surface and had started for the top when he was buried.

Hardy Tossed Aside as Dead When Born

Dorchester, Eng., Sept. 2 (AP)—Unveiling a lifesize statue of Thomas Hardy, here in Hardy's native Dorsetshire today, Sir James Barrie told how nearly the world came to missing altogether the late novelist's services.

"When the child Hardy was born," said Sir James, "the doctor thought him dead and dropped him into a basket. But a woman stepped forward to make sure and found he was alive.

"What interests me still more is this:

"War Hardy shamming in the basket? If so, that was the only time in his life that he ever shammed.

"Yet knowing what we know of him, we may think that at his first sight of life he liked it as little that he lay very still. There was never any more faltering.

"Undaunted—that was Hardy. He was a great man. That was his hard fate."

Don't say: "It can't be done," until you've tried a Want Ad.

NURSE BEATEN BY PROWLER

Worcester, Sept. 2—A boudoir burglar attacked and seriously injured Miss Helena M. Howley, 24, graduate nurse, in her home in Seymour st., early today.

He beat her twice as she cowered in bed and she was taken to Fairlawn Hospital, where she is employed, suffering from a broken nose, jaw injury and lacerations.

The burglar, a youth of about her own age, according to the nurse, awakened her when he stepped into her bedroom, having gained entrance to the apartment by a pass key later found on the floor.

She screamed and the prowler leaped at her and beat her on the face and head.

Miss Howley said she feigned unconsciousness to save herself from a worse beating and he turned from her to a bureau and searched it as if seeking something.

He turned suddenly while engaged in his search and saw her watching him, she said, and again attacked her.

He left, apparently without taking anything and she summoned police. She said she could identify him.

Wynne's SAFE Diet

Commissioner Wynne's menu for the twelfth day of the Evening American's fourteen-day reducing diet, allowing 1,200 calories per day:

Menu No. 12

BREAKFAST—½ small grapefruit (no sugar) ..... 50 calories
2 slices of bacon (well done) ..... 75 calories
1 slice toast ..... 50 calories
¼ glass of milk (not cream) for coffee..... 25 calories
Coffee with 1 piece of lump sugar ..... 35 calories

MID-MORNING—1 glass of milk (from lower half of bottle).....100 calories

LUNCH—Cottage cheese salad with cole slaw and watercress .....100 calories
(3 tablespoons of cheese, ½ cup cole slaw)
1 French roll .....100 calories
Fruit gelatin with 1 teaspoonful whipped cream ..... 85 calories

DINNER—Fresh fruit cocktail .....100 calories
(½ cup)

Menu No. 13 Tomorrow

1 Breaded veal cutlet....250 calories
1 cup stewed tomatoes... 50 calories
1 cup string beans..... 50 calories
(no butter)
Lettuce salad with ½ tbsp. French dressing ..... 30 calories
1 glass of milk.....100 calories

If the weight and exercise tables show that you need more than 1,200 calories make up the difference from the foods named in the menu, beginning with an extra glass of milk—100 calories.

(To obtain back numbers send 3 cents to circulation department, Boston American.)

Here's the table of weights and key numbers:

WOMEN Height Feet	Inches	Weight Pounds	MEN Height Feet	Inches	Weight Pounds
4	10	116	5	3	133
4	11	118	5	4	136
5	—	120	5	5	140
5	1	122	5	6	144
5	2	124	5	7	148
5	3	127	5	8	152
5	4	130	5	9	156
5	5	134	5	10	161
5	6	138	5	11	166
5	7	142	6	—	172
5	8	146	6	1	178
5	9	150	6	2	184
5	10	154	6	3	190

Consult table for your normal weight. Multiply that by:
15 if you take no exercise.
17 if you take light exercise.
19 if you take moderate exercise.
22 if you do muscular labor.
25 if you do severe labor.

You then have the number of calories for your daily food requirements if you were not overweight.

From this number subtract 1000 calories—and you have your proper reducing diet. A safe reducing diet provides for you to use 1000 calories a day for the fat stored in your body.

ERIC VON STROHEIM TO DIRECT FILM FOR FOX

His Next Engagement Is Likely to Be "Walking Down Broadway"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor.
(Copyright, 1931 by Universal Service, Inc.)

Los Angeles, Sept. 2—Eric, the extravagant, is about to direct a picture for the Fox company. Everyone knows that while Von Stroheim spends money like water he usually achieves something out of the ordinary in the way of story and action.

Louella O. Parsons

I have heard it rumored, but not verified, that Mr. Von Stroheim will direct "Walking Down Broadway" for the Fox company. He will not play a part, and neither will he take longer than a specified time to finish his picture. If—and that's a mighty important word, he does not complete his picture on schedule, well, he will not collect his salary.

The arrangement told me is that Eric Von Stroheim will not be paid a penny until the picture is signed, sealed and delivered. Maybe that's one way to be sure of getting the best that Von Stroheim has in him.

Seen and Heard

Soviet Russia, studied by so many students of economics, will be visited by Mrs. R. P. Schulberg and Mrs. Berthold Viertel this coming winter. Mrs. Schulberg and Mrs. Viertel are making their plans to go abroad shortly and Russia will be their headquarters. Mrs. Schulberg, who is one of Hollywood's intelligentsia, has been studying Russian problems and Russian government experiences for some time. Letters from the East speak about the romance of Lita Grey Chaplin and Georges Carpentier. The ex-heavyweight champion of France and Charlie Chaplin's former wife are seen everywhere together.

An ear to the ground discloses that Red Grange is back in town talking pictures. He had dinner at Sam Holland's corner last week. Sally O'Neill, who has been going mighty well in the movies, is sick in the Santa Monica Hospital. She has had a heart attack but last reports are that she is getting along nicely.

Snapshots of Hollywood

NANCY CARROLL in pale blue pajamas, guest at the Mile Levee Beach House Sunday. FLORENCE ELDRIDGE and FREDERICK MARCH taking a swim in the briny and then exercising by playing ping pong. ADOLPHE MENJOU concentrating on backgammon and KATHERINE CARVER MENJOU also a guest at the Levee's waking in the sand. DOLORES and JOHN BARRYMORE attracting attention at Malibu. They were guests of JOSEPHINE CAWTHORN. EVELYN BRENT entertaining DONALD FREEMAN, MRS. BROKAW and E. SPEICHNER of the Vanity Fair staff. MARY PICKFORD in pale pink satin pajamas at the motion picture relief fund meeting. MRS. CONRAD NAGEL in pale green pajamas, KAY FRANCIS in henna color pajamas also present. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

THE GLINT AND GLITTER OF "THIS MODERN AGE"

Joan Crawford's newest picture, now unrolling at the State, shows modern youth on a rampage. Sparkling dialogue from the mouths of brilliant Pauline Broderick and suave Monroe Owsley combines with lively situations and an unusually diverting plot to make "This Modern Age" one of the season's gayest and most sophisticated films.

Shakespearean Festival Bill

Through advices just received from England it is possible to announce even at this early date the complete repertoire of the Shakespearean festival which will be presented at the Tremont theater by the Stratford-Upon-Avon Players during their visit in October.

For the first week the bills will be: Monday, "The Merry Wives of Windsor"; Tuesday, "King Lear"; Wednesday matinee, "A Winter's Tale"; Wednesday evening, "The Taming of the Shrew"; Thursday, "Measure for Measure"; Friday, "As You Like It"; Saturday matinee, "King Henry the Fourth—Part I"; Saturday evening, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The second week list: Monday, "A Winter's Tale"; Tuesday, "King Lear"; Wednesday matinee, "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; Wednesday evening, "The Merry Wives of Windsor"; Thursday, "Twelfth Night"; Friday, "King Henry the Fourth—Part I"; Saturday matinee, "As You Like It"; Saturday night, "The Taming of the Shrew."

Orpheum Changes

"Guilty Hands," an M-G-M production of Bayard Veiller's first original screen story, with Lionel Barrymore, Kay Francis, Madge Evans, William Bakewell, Polly Moran and Alan Mowbray in the featured roles, comes to the screen at Loew's Orpheum on Friday.

On the Variety Horizon

By JACK GOULD

Native Bostonians will rule the variety boards this coming week. With such favorites (and natives) as Bennie Drohan and Marty Dupree coming to the Scollay and Mickie Alpert with his Blue Heaven Boys at the Keith-Boston, it looks as though vaudeville disciples are due for an Old Home Week.

Bennie Drohan and Marty Dupree once tried their fortunes with "Tab" shows, which, meant a large company of pretty girls, comedians, etc.; also a heavy payroll from which came anxiety on Saturday nights. Today a different story may be told, for Drohan and Dupree are of headline calibre without the added vexation of salary lists to annoy them.

A breath of romantic and enchanting Spain will reign on the "Met" stage, starting Friday, as the new unit is strictly of a Castillian nature. It is appropriately entitled "Carmenesque" and boasts picturesque and lavish scenery besides a large cast of performers.

The current vaude bill at the Palace Theater, New York, will be broken up at the end of this week after a record-breaking run of seven weeks. However, Kate Smith and William Gaxton of this bill will be held over with the new show coming in. Incidentally, it looks like a wise move on the part of RKO to book Jack Benny as master of ceremonies for this, their ace vaudeville house. Also on this new unit will be Harriet Hoctor, generally acknowledged as the premiere danseuse of the day.

The "California Collegians" will make their Boston stage debut at the Orpheum Theater on Friday, and advance reports point out that they have assembled a variety of new musical arrangements as well as a generous supply of comedy specialties.

Midnight Show at Met

Presenting a preview of the Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business" the Metropolitan will offer a midnight show on Sunday. The showing is in the nature of a Labor Day celebration.

'The Mikado' Hit for Years

Historical data clings to that paradoxical nonsense, "The Mikado," which opens the Gilbert and Sullivan season at the Lyric Theater in another week. The records show that the world premiere took place at the Savoy Theater, London, on March 14, 1885, under the management, naturally, of the only D'Oyly Carte. The first American presentation, and one which lasted but a single performance, due to the little matter of a court injunction, was given by Sidney Rosenfeld on July 20, 1885.

"The Squaw Man" on State Screen Friday

Cecil B. De Mille's adaptation of "The Squaw Man," Edwin Milton Royle's famous stage play, opens Friday at Loew's State. "Backhand, Forehand and Service," the third and concluding issue in the series of Bill Tilden Tennis Shorts and Hearst Metrotone News are included among the supplementary features.

Jewish Choral Treat Planned

The Boston Jewish Choral Society, inspired by its many successes, is promising something entirely new for this coming season. In its future presentations the Choral Society will be assisted by the newly-formed Boston Jewish Symphony Orchestra, the only organization of its kind in this country.

The new season is already partly filled. Two concerts have been booked, while lectures at the Boston Public Library and many radio performances have also been arranged.

Extra Program in Brookline Series

The following program will be presented for the extra concert tonight at Brookline Field by the People's Symphony Orchestra:
Overture, Merry Wives of Windsor ..... Nicolai
Valse Triste ..... Sibelius
Aria, "Ritorna Vincitor," from "Aida," ..... Verdi
Soloist, Elsie Winsor Bird, Dramatic Soprano
Selections from "The Defender," Dennes
Second Suite, "L'Arlesienne" ..... Bizet
Aria, "Adieu, Forets," from "Jeanne d'Arc" ..... Tschaikovsky
Soloist, Abbie Conley Rice
Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, ... Arr. by Pochon
For Strings Only.
Finale of Symphony No. 4, in F Minor ..... Chaikovsky
Conductor, Will Dodge

Holiday Eve Show

A special midnight show on Sunday (Labor Day Eve) will usher in the vaudeville bill at the Scollay. Heading this new variety program will be "Mid-Day 09 h [illegible] Eve" with a company of 18 colored performers.

Movie Clock

Featured photoplays in the picture theaters and their starting times today are as follows:

EXETER—"Night Angel"; p. m., 3:45, 6:40, 9:35.
FENWAY—"Bought"; p. m., 1:00, 3:10, 5:20, 7:30, 9:43.
RKO KEITH—"Caught Plastered"; a. m., 9:10, 10:48; p. m., 12:41, 2:34, 4:27, 6:14, 8:07, 10:00.

Easy Divorces for Spain, Woman's Aim

Madrid, Sept. 2 (US)—Senorita Clara Campoamnor, deputy to the constituent cortes, warmly defended the articles in the draft constitution providing for easy divorces.

It was the first time in history that a woman has addressed the Spanish Parliament.

NIGHT CLUBS DIE IF AMERICANS SLEEP

By Gilbert Seldes

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF THOSE HELL-HOLES known as night clubs is one of the triumphs of prohibition, yet not exactly in the way prohibitionists expected. Among the competing attractions, none has been so powerful as the speakeasy which, by now, offers a fairly complete cabaret and two square feet of dancing space to its patrons. I dislike speakeasies with entertainers, and I like night clubs; so another black mark goes down against the Anti-Saloon League.

GILBERT SELDES

The night club was, I fear, never a purely American institution, and there were those who protested against its alien spirit, as there are Frenchmen who deplore the cocktail bar in Paris. Its great value was that it denied one or two of the duller assumptions of American life, beginning with the fallacy of going early to bed and ending with the monstrous idea that after you have worked you ought not to play—in order to keep yourself fit for more work tomorrow. The New England farmer used to dance in a barn; but the New York broker was not permitted to dance unless his wife was taking his daughter to a party. The cabaret and the night club introduced a softness and a pleasantness into urban life.

In Bad Hands

The night club fell into the hands of racketeers; it wavered between the speakeasy and the restaurant, and it went to pieces. Last year three types survived: the no-cover charge restaurant on a large scale, with an entertainment lasting about an hour; the highly personal club, dominated by an entertainer; and the old club, the place you went for supper and dancing, with the opportunity to hear one or two songs and see a quarter of an hour's dancing by experts.

The real thing, the true pleasure of the night club still exists. It isn't the place to stagger into when you can't think of any other place to go. It is a night club with charm and ease, a moment of quiet between noises. I believe some of its patrons are supposed to be terribly upper class, and if they are, so much the better for the upper class, because they are supporting a good thing, when they might be wasting their time at home. It is pleasant to know that one spot at least can resist prohibition, not by being a speakeasy, but by being better than a speakeasy.

Better Than Virtue

I have a letter from a woman in Washington whose suffering has, apparently, made her happy, and amusing to others. Most of the letter concerns a suggestion made by another correspondent who wanted women to take over all the privileges of men—and to do all the men's work; it is somewhat ironic about "men who want women to have a 'place,'" which is called "purely masculine bombast."

The writer says:

"Speaking for myself, I have never yet seen the man with whom I would care to change places, and that's not applesauce, either. Was born in abject poverty, reared in an orphanage, married before I knew what it was all about to a man twice as old as myself (my beauty and innocence—ignorance—attracted), was the clinging vine type, have been a widow 13 years. Must get my breath now. Had no money but had to rear two children and, incidentally, I had no training. Went to night school, worked all day in office, cooked, washed, ironed, and sat up all hours of the night sewing, that my children might be well-dressed. Had to wear coarse shoes, cotton stockings and wear my clothes to a frazzle. My women friends were jealous of me—what of, I don't know—no man ever noticed me. I was a widow, but not merry. Well, I hit bottom in adversity, but found myself mentally sitting framed among the astonished stars and nothing could hurt me."

That strikes me as pretty fine. "It's great to go up hill in reverse," is the conclusion of the letter. I'd never thought of it before, but it must be.

Yearnings

THIS IS WHAT I'd love; a clean-swept house
And a gray, purring cat dreaming of a mouse.
(Though I have less trouble with three rooms I vent
And the vacuum cleaner from the management.)

Neighbors running in with a pattern or a cake
And a bit of pleasant gossip till the babies wake.
(Though it breaks up your work less if the truth were known
To get dirt about the village on the telephone.)

A gingham-curtained kitchen with shining pans
And a painted pad to pencil a week's supper plans.
(Yet pans make work, also suppers in a flock,
There's a swell speakeasy on the very next block.)

Bright-colored seed books by the lamp at night
And plans for the iris when the ground comes right.
(Though I must say I've noticed in the very long run
A florist comes much cheaper when all's said and done.)

A big plump dog leaping on the lawn,
And a window for the sunset, and one for the dawn . . .
(It's genteelly true that I'd like all that,
But I seem to keep on leasing a nice New York flat!)

Off the Press

—By Idwal Jones—

CHESHIRE HOUSE has just published an edition of Edgar Allan Poe's creeper, "The Fall of the House of Usher," bound in monks' cloth and with woodblock cuts by Abner Epstein . . . F. J. Stimson, whose short story, "Mrs. Knollys," was a classic 30 years ago, is, you might be reminded, a Boston lawyer and ex-ambassador. Scribners are bringing out this month his war time memoirs, "My United States" . . . William Allen White, the Emporia Sage, is dry, meaning he is a Dry . . . He is one of the supporters of the movement to start a dry daily in Manhattan . . . Four thousand persons in the United States write for the air, so we are told in "How to Write for Radio" (Longmans, Green) . . . The Literary Guild has selected for September, "John Henry," a dialect fantasy by Roark Bradford, author of "Green Pastures" . . . Simon and Schuster announce a second printing of "You Hoo Prosperity!" by Eddie Cantor, one of the most prosperous funsters on Broadway, who sees depression as rather funny . . . In his forthcoming "Believe It or Not," Bob Ripley leaves it to us to prove that these are not true:

Albert Einstein flunked in mathematics . . . The city of Washington is not the capital of the United States . . . A barrel of dimes is worth more than a barrel of dollars . . . The greatest soprano was a man . . . Snow set fire to a car of iron . . . Abraham was not a Jew.

The Poet

He knows no calm who strives with words to find
A form and substance for the shadowy throng
That haunt the silent cloisters of the mind.
The fettered shapes that seek escape in song
Will batter down his walls of happiness;
Each leaf that quivers on a dawn-stirred tree,
Each flower the flying feet of breezes press
Is like a spirit crying to be free.
There is no rest for him. The muffled cries
Of clods and stones will shatter all his peace;
Each star hangs like a dagger in the skies.
Who writes a poem can never know release
From beauty's pain. Until his songs are done
He is a martyr to the earth and sun.

Other Men's Ideas

FROM "Men and Memories," by Will Rothenstein (Coward-McCann):

"I remember especially a dinner Frank Harris gave at which Oscar Wilde, Max Beerbohm, Aubrey Beardsley, Robbie Ross and myself were present. Harris monopolized the conversation; even Wilde found it difficult to get a word in. He told us an endless story, obviously inspired by the Etui de Nacre, while Oscar grew more and more restive. When at last it came to an end, Max said, 'Now Frank, Anatole Frances would have spoiled that story.' But Harris wasn't thin-skinned; he proceeded to tell us of all the great houses he frequented. This was more than Oscar could bear. 'Yes, dear Frank,' he exclaimed, 'we believe you; you have dined in every house in London—once.' This is the only time I ever heard him say an unkind thing."

Modern Democracy

—By Anthony Gibbs—

I wonder whether you've noticed an odd tendency of democracy to make rules for itself that no dictator would dare to put over this side of assassination. The example that jumps to the mind is prohibition.

But there are others. There's the English income tax, which Parliament cheerfully sanctions year by year. There was the English speed limit of 20 miles an hour. There is also the English Sunday. I doubt whether unlimited oral applications of castor oil could impose that on the effervescent Italian nation or substitute the heaving chords of "In a monastery garden" as heard fitfully across a deserted seaside promenade for the joyous and impassioned neighings, the O Sole Mio's and the I Pagliacci's, the yell of free exhausts Anthony Gibbs and the scream of horns, with which that great people assaults the firmament on seven days of the week.

Perhaps the democracies are a little afraid of themselves. Take this question of censorship. Perhaps, in their heart of hearts, the free peoples know that the majority is always in the wrong, if you give it half a chance. Indeed the very last thing which can be tolerated among a collection of human beings who achieved their political freedom is freedom of conscience or behavior.

Now it has always seemed to me that the democracies, and by that I mean England and America, are perfectly right in their attitude. We are the great middle-class nations, and it is most fitting that we should behave in a proper suburban manner.

In Germany they have developed almost a national custom of removing their clothes and dotting themselves about the countryside, stark naked, in family groups. The thing is not particularly sightly, but it is intensely respectable.

In France, on the other hand, which presents the apparent paradox of being at once the most feudal and the most bourgeois nation on earth, a Frenchman takes a mistress with an air of such gruff inevitability, such a manly polish in his misbehavior, that really, however much his jowl wabbles in the process, you feel that he is only upholding the elegant traditions of the court of Versailles.

I am sure that we could not allow this sort of thing in England or America, because the place would get slummy.

Where Nakedness Thrives

I am all for a spot of nakedness, but I fear the young people of America could scarcely go naked without going necking, or the young people of England without giggling, and I don't know which is worse.

The elders of both nations are better covered. And the mistress system is so exclusively the prerogative of the French that to imitate it would be impertinent and ridiculous, like a Japanese in a high collar and straw hat.

The two great Anglo-Saxon nations live with vulgarity just around the corner. At the Folies Bergeres the young ladies are not ashamed of their breasts. At any English or American cabaret they wave their legs.

We have an unfortunate tendency to concentrate below the belt. I tremble to consider what enormities would come out of Hollywood, what plays would be produced, what books would be written, what depths of pornography would be plumbed, if we were not snobs and intelligent cowards enough to maintain at the public expense a sensitively souled gentleman to protect us from ourselves. Even Mr. Aldous Huxley himself—Mr. Huxley says somewhere that he was startled to find his books being sold under the counter in America.

Mr. Huxley can make intellectual rings round most of us, God wot, and if he expects his books to be sold over the counter he is too modest.

Regretfully Yours

I marvel at the careless way
You calmly take the gift I bring,
As though it happened every day,
And were a very trivial thing:
I wonder if you ever knew
So warm a flame within your heart
As this unchanging love for you——
Which, I regret, will not depart!
But, from my corner on the shelf
Of your disdain, I'll have you know
That though I cannot help myself,
I DO NOT WANT TO LOVE YOU SO!

—Sara Henderson Hay.

SOLONS BACK BIG LOAN PLAN

Albany, Sept. 2 (INS)—A resolution requesting President Hoover to convene a special session of Congress to enact the plan suggested by William Randolph Hearst for a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan, was introduced in the New York State Senate today.

When Sen. John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader, offered the resolution and read a statement praising the plan, Sen. George R. Fearon, Republican chief, asked Lieut.-Gov. Lehman if he felt the proposal came within the purview of Gov. Roosevelt's unemployment message.

"I most certainly consider that clearly within the purview of the governor's message," Col. Lehman replied.

Earlier, Speaker McGinnies, Republican boss of the lower house, had prevented Assemblyman Steingut, Democratic leader, from offering a simple resolution.

When McGinnies ruled that it did not come within the purview of the governor's unemployment message, Steingut announced he would introduce the proposal in the form of a bill.

Europe Plans Peace for Us

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

League has a new idea for peace that is brighter than a new dime.

It wants to take charge of all weapons and munitions. Which would leave our army with one flintlock musket, the sword of General Cornwallis and a wild desire to succeed.

The usual routine for a duel is coffee and pistols for two at dawn. Europe would take both the pistols and we'd get the coffee.

The general feeling in the West and South is that the farm board might have been worse. They might have been crows.

Treasury has no trouble borrowing a billion at three per cent. That loan is like a starving bigamist. Over-subscribed and undernourished.

And the main trouble encountered by the Hoover jobless commission is how to relieve unemployment without merging with the Democrats.

SEES N. Y. HOP IN 12 HOURS

Paris, Sep. 2 (INS)—Breakfast in Paris; tea in New York—all in the same day.

Ivan Makhonine, Russian aviation engineer plans to blaze the route for this feat within three weeks.

Piloting a "shrinking wing" plane he designed and which he expects will revolutionize airplane construction, the Russian aviator hopes to link the two capitals together in 12 hours.

"I intend to breakfast here at 9 o'clock, hop off at 10 o'clock and land at Roosgevelt Field at 5 o'clock in the afternoon when I shall drink a cup of tea to the future of aviation," Mr. Makhonine said today.

"My plane has extensible wings. They can be pulled in from their maximum spread of 65 feet to 35 feet and thus carry a heavier load than a plane designed exclusively for speed."

point a committee to study the situation.

Mayor Murphy's proposal was for the establishment of a public fund, under State supervision, to which all motorists would contribute, and from which all claims would be paid. It would also be optional to file a bond, as under the present law.

AGENTS OPPOSED

Arthur L. Granfield of Chicopee called a meeting of insurance agents in that city, protesting against the new rates, and to discuss plans for representation at the public hearing at the State House September 17. He declares that liability claims in Chicopee have been low and show no increase, yet the rates for next year have been raised.

Official protests of the city of Worcester were contained in a telegram sent Governor Ely by Mayor O'Hara. Other protests from business men and citizens are expected to follow.

On the recommendation of Mayor Edward H. Larkin, the Medford Board of Aldermen passed a resolution of protest which will be sent to the Governor. Mayor Larkin denounced the new rates as "an additional burden" on the motorists of Massachusetts.

Gov. Ely and Atty.-Gen. Warner were called upon to investigate the entire situation by former Governor Fuller, who termed the increase "outrageous." The compulsory insurance law went into effect during Fuller's administration, and Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown was a Fuller appointee.

FULLER HITS "CROOKS"

"Crooked lawyers and doctors who practice conspiracy to collect theft rates, should be prosecuted," Fuller said.

Gov. Ely had no comment to make on the proposed increase yesterday but stated he would discuss them in a radio address next Tuesday evening. He will make a thorough study before expressing any opinion on the rates.

The Governor will go on the air at 7:45 from the executive offices. He will talk for about 20 minutes.

Chairman Frank A. Goodwin, of the Finance Commission, joined in the protest by releasing a table of figures showing the enormous increase in premium rates on small cars and asserted that fatal accident and injury records were "ridiculously small" as compared with insurance rates.

Senator Conde Brodbine and Representatives Thomas Carroll and Augustine Airola, all of Revere, announced they were working on a bill to change the present method of setting rates.

The first delivery of mail at the State House today, however, brought hundreds of the auto rate protest coupons, which are being published daily in the Boston Evening American, to give citizens an opportunity to register to Governor Ely their dissatisfaction with the proposed increase in rates.

LOVE MADE BOY TURN BANDIT

gold band wedding ring, denied that he was married either to the widow or to anybody else.

WON'T NAME GIRL

"That's all you'll get out of me about a girl," he said. "She's out of this and it's as much a surprise to her as to everybody else.

"I only made three robberies anyway, and this New York guy was with me. I was never with Manley. He worked with other guys in the gang. This New York guy, I don't know his name—only his nickname. I don't want to tell who he is anyway. Let it go at that."

Gardella said he had no set territory given him by the gang when he went out to rob petting parties.

"I just went out and just pleased them up myself," he said. "I got a kick out of it at that."

The youthful bandit declared that he had but eight years of schooling at the Lincoln school, Medford, and then "went for a while at bricklaying."

He revealed that he has been four times in court for drunkenness and was in the last time on August 3, when he was given a month suspended sentence.

PALS SCOFF AT STORY

When Atty. David T. Leary, their counsel, told them of Gardella's excuse for the holdups, Joseph Craig, 20, and James Donahue, 20, both of Medford and alleged to have taken part with Manley in the policeman holdup, scoffed at the story.

"He's just looking for sympathy," declared Donahue, in a cell with Craig at Belmont police headquarters. "It's the bunk. There's no such jane at all. If he was traveling around with a doll, I'd know about it."

Craig and Donahue evinced concern when told that Manley was not expected to live more than a few hours. Donahue said soberly:

"We tried to save him. I knew he was pretty bad. He told me he thought he was dying. I drove the car up to the hospital and Craig sat holding Manley. I thought he would pull through, the poor kid."

IDENTIFIES PISTOL

Three more members of the "petters' gang" will be seized, police believe, through finding of a revolver in Winchester on the night of Aug. 13 and thought to have been dropped by one of three men who stole an automobile in Medford. A youth's cap was found.

On the following day three youths were arrested by Medford police and charged with the theft, but were acquitted in court.

Gardella identified the revolver today as a "community gun" used by the "petters' gang" and in his possession twice although he took it out on a holdup only once.

The youthful bandit identified the gun by its hard pull and by a nick on the end of the barrel.

Medford police went in search today for the three youths who were acquitted on the automobile charge and will question them in connection with petting party holdups. It is believed the cap belonged to one of them.

DENIED ALL OTHERS

Before being taken to East Cambridge Jail today, Gardella was questioned by Lynn, Medford and other police in connection with petting party holdups in their communities. He denied them all, however, confirming his admissions to those already made to police.

According to Gardella's confession to police, Manley was the member of the gang who used only a glass pistol, while the other members went armed. Gardella insisted, however, that his gun never was loaded.

MANY PROTEST AUTO RATES

Boston Evening American coupons protesting the tentative compulsory automobile insurance rates for 1931, announced yesterday, were today pouring in from all parts of the state.

In addition to the coupons, the editor of the Boston Evening American received many letters, all condemning the proposed increase in rates.

Among the typical letters received is one from A. L. Johnson of Boston. The letter follows:

"Editor The Boston American:

"Dear Sir:

"I have read your paper ever since I can remember, and note with interest each time that you champion the cause of the people. I have one suggestion to make in connection with the automobile insurance rates. It is:

"That you urge the legislators to enact a law or provision where the insurance companies be obliged to show the amount of revenue derived from the automobile insurance; the amount of money actually paid by them; the amount of overhead, and of what the overhead consists, to prevent any bolstering.

Wishing you continued success, I am

Very truly yours,

(Signed) A. J. Johnson,

Boston, Mass."

You have one way to register your disapproval of the increase. That is by signing your name and address to the coupon printed on Page One of this edition of the American, and mailing it TODAY. Don't delay!

Watertown Girl Heiress

Middletown, Ct., Sept. 2 (AP)—Miss Maude Markham of Watertown, Mass., niece of Oliver L. Markham, late banker of this town, receives one-third of his $162,500 estate by his will probated today.

Gasoline Prices Rise

Cleveland, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio today added another cent to its gasoline price, making its two grades sell for 17 and 20 cents a gallon. Other companies indicated they would make a similar increase at once.

PROTESTS PILE IN ON AUTO RATE BOOST

Heads of prominent automobile concerns and Boston City Council members today joined the growing list of public officials who registered their opposition to the proposed increase in the auto insurance rates.

H. B. Church, president, H. B. Church Trucking Co.: One of the chief causes for the increase is the fact that the public is becoming "claim-minded." By that I mean, if a mudguard is grazed, a law suit follows. Statistics prove that our fleet showed a decrease in accidents for the past year, with a corresponding falling off of insurance liability and risk.

Boston City Council members and others opposed to the increase include:

EDWARD L. ENGLERT of Jamaica Plain: "As usual it is the man who earns a small salary on a small job who is most seriously affected by tax increases. Increase of this tax will drive the poor man off the road."

HERMAN L. BUSH of Roxbury: "The time has come when a curb should be put on matters of this sort. Let the public present a united front on this issue and fight shoulder to shoulder to prevent it."

RICHARD D. GLEASON of Roxbury: "I will support any move to prevent an increase in taxes on automobiles. This is an outrage. I have great faith in Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman, and I believe that he will make every effort possible to prevent this increase."

TIMOTHY F. DONOVAN of East Boston: "The great majority of the residents of East Boston are owners of the type of automobiles which are scheduled for the $8 increase in compulsory, automobile insurance. Any movement to prevent this increase will be given my whole-hearted support."

PETER A. MURRAY of Forest Hills: On all sides we hear cries of reduced wages. How can a man who is now barely able to buy gasoline and oil for his car going to pay the additional $8 now demanded by the insurance commissioner."

LEO POWER of Roxbury: "With each succeeding year we see the rights of the average man trampled on more and more. Little effort is made to prevent this. Now we are faced with the spectacle of the wealthy man, owner of an expensive automobile, and in many instances several of these vehicles, having his assessment for compulsory insurance increased only $1, while his fellow citizen, owner of a second hand car, is called on to pay $8 above last year's assessment."

DAY BAKER, member Commercial Dealers' Association of Boston: "The accidents and losses in commercial motor trucks were materially reduced during the past year as compared with other years, showing the insurance companies had correspondingly less risk."

Luther Burbank's Business Goes On

Philadelphia, Sept. 2 (AP)—David Burpee, president of the W. Atlee Burpee Co., made known today the Burpee company has acquired rights to continue the seed and bulb business and experiments of Luther Burbank from the "plant wizard's" widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Burbank.

Burbank and the father of David Burpee, cousins, were boyhood chums.

SEPTEMBER In NEW YORK CITY

THIS is the time to visit New York, America's biggest city, the "between season."

New plays are starting. You can be first to see them, and tell your friends about them.

The new fashions from Paris and everywhere are in the stores. You can be first to take home "New York's latest," and show it to your friends.

The parks are at their best, the breeze sweeps in from the Atlantic Ocean, over the city. Interesting strangers from everywhere, from over the oceans, from every State, are gathering in New York to "do their shopping and see the new plays early," to discuss public questions with minds possessing a new viewpoint, and for the change of mood that comes with change of scene.

Make your trip to New York NOW. See the new plays, the latest reviews, the interesting, brilliantly assorted night resorts, the things that interest you in a city of six million inhabitants.

* * *

September is New York's best month for shopping, sightseeing, and for those that want headquarters within easy reach of all the Eastern seaside resorts. COME TO NEW YORK NOW.

NO RADIO DEPRESSION

Salaries Reach Ten Million Total

By N. Y. T.

That well-known wolf, whose weakness is loitering on front doorsteps, hasn't yet stopped at the entrance to radioland, where ever increasing thousands dwell and prosper.

Whether wolves care for crooning or not is beside the question. Perhaps augmented jazz orchestra melody strikes fear to Wolverine hearts. At all odds, there is much gold in the broadcasting business and it all glitters. Checking up in the paymaster's department, a certain NBC executive named George Engles, feels it is important to announce that during the past year, microphone magnus have paid money to radio artists of assorted sizes, shapes and talents, the sum total of which runs up to and slightly beyond $10,000,000. Yes, Mr. Engles, the fact is quite important, and your offices will, no doubt, be receiving a tidal wave of applications from now on. But remember you have yourself to blame; you asked to have the figures published. We aim to please, also to inform.

PROSPERITY PREVAILS

Radio artists then, booked to the tune of that amount, make up at least one group of humans unaffected by the now celebrated depression. Oh well, if the financially persecuted public are to be kept from degrading into a moody maze, it remains for radio folk to banish the blues. Why quibble on money?

Guess who's in town? It's Frank Mahler, former RKO and WNAC organist who first saw the possibilities awaiting development in the tender vocal membranes belonging to one Adrian O'Brien. Guess who's due Saturday? Adrian himself. Both boys, granted a short leave from the big WEAF network in New York, think there is no better place to spend their brief respite than back home here in Boston.

Among the cutest things noted today are two baby photos of Marsha (WAAB) Lee, taken here in Boston when said culinary counteiloress (there's a new title) was at the age of two and five years. The little tot of two seemed quite elated upon having her first bath in a tiny rubber tub. Earl Carrol should see them.

Everything was peacefully settled however when President Ayleswarth applied a goodly spread of psychological salve on the thin skin of his offended band leader Jimmy-Whillikens, it surely did look like a whale of a radio story for a time!

EDGE, LAVAL IN LEAGUE TALK

Paris, Sept. 2 (AP)—Premier Laval and American Ambassador Edge are to confer this evening on subjects likely to be discussed at the approaching assembly of the League of Nations.

Economic and financial problems loom as the foremost of these. Disarmament also may be touched upon.

AUSTRIA DROPS CUSTOMS PACT

Geneva, Sept. 2 (AP)—Germany and Austria are expected to issue tomorrow or Friday—at least before the decision of the World Court—a joint declaration announcing abandonment of their proposed customs union at the request of France.

The World Court is expected to deliver on Saturday its long awaited decision reported to deny Austria a right to make such an agreement under the terms of the war treaties, but upholding that of Germany.

"Nat File" for Maas' Charges of Postal Monopoly

San Francisco, Sept. 2 (US) - "Congressman Maas' communications are referred to the 'nut file.'"

With this comment Postmaster General Walter F. Brown answered the charges of Congressman M. J. Maas of Minnesota, in connection with a so-called post-office lease scandal. Brown is in San Francisco.

"As for the monopoly which Maas charges, all leases were made after public bids," Brown

ART DONOR SHY WIFE'S RENT

New York, Sept. 2 (AP)—John Gellatly, 78, who gave the Smithsonian Institution and others his $5,000,000 art collection two years ago, has admitted in court he is unable to pay his wife's $660 rent bill.

Mrs. Charlayne Gellatly, 35, who says she is an actress charged he posed as a philanthropist and gave away his fortune instead of caring for her. She said she had not lived with him since their marriage last year.

BURGLAR GIVES NURSES SCARE

Brockton, Sept. 2—Some 14 nurses at the Goddard Hospital were given a scare early today when an attempt was made to break into the hospital through a window on the first floor of the nurses' home leading to the nurses' dormitory.

The crashing of glass aroused all the occupants and the nurses ran to the rear of the home, where they saw a man racing away.

LINER SAVES 3 TRAPPED IN YACHT FIRE

Providence, Sept. 2 (AP)—Details of a thrilling rescue of three men trapped on a burning schooner yacht in Long Island Sound last night and the expert maneuvers of a big passenger liner in effecting the rescue, were revealed today with the arrival here of the City of Lowell with the three men aboard.

R. W. Latham of Crestwood, N. Y., skipper of the schooner Buccaneer; his son, R. C. Latham, and G. H. Dericks of Colonial Heights, N. Y., were the three saved. The elder Latham described the cruise which nearly cost his own life and the lives of the two youths with him.

Young Dericks suffered slight burns on the left leg as he fought his way out of the cockpit of the schooner.

LOOKED BAD

"It looked bad for us for a while," the elder Latham said. "I don't know what our fate would have been if the City of Lowell hadn't come alongside when she did. The interior of the craft was a roaring furnace and the sails had taken fire.

"We had discarded most of our clothing and were making ready to swim for shore when the liner sighted us.

"The schooner struck rough water in the sound just after we entered the steamer lane and a heavy sea tossed the boat over and smashed an oil lamp in the cockpit.

SPREAD TO GASOLINE

"The oil spilled out on the floor and spread to a gasoline drum.

"The two boys fought their way on deck but young Dericks was caught in the flames as he tried to hurl the drum overboard. We tried to launch our lifeboat but the schooner was pitching so that it was lost.

"We crowded out on the boom when we saw the lights of the City of Lowell bearing down on us."

Former Leaders Are Arrested in Spain

Madrid, Sept. 2 (UNS)—The threat of the Spanish republican government to punish members of the directorate which held power in Spain for more than eight years materialized today.

Gen. Frederick Berenguer, brother of former Premier Damaso Berenguer, who succeeded Primo de Rivera as dictator of Spain, and a number of officers in the Berenguer cabinet were arrested and held for "unconstitutional acts."

Yale Instructor Dies on Trip Home

Fayetteville, Ark., Sept. 2—Rolling Dunn, of the Yale University faculty, died last night after an operation for appendicitis. He was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dunn.

U. S. to Be Given Part of France by New Map of Hitler

Paris, Sept. 2 (AP)—The newspapers Figaro and Ami Du Peuple devoted their front pages today to "a new map of France," designed for execution by Adolf Hitler in 1935.

The map envisages distribution of all French maritime frontiers among Germany, on the north, from Dunkirk to Havre, England, on the west, and Catalonia and Italy, on the south, except ing Marseilles and Bouches-du-Rhone department, which Germany would keep.

Finistere would be given to the United States as a naval station, Figaro said, "to assure her complacent neutrality to this operation of brigandry which recalls the first partition of Poland."

KILL 'EM ALL COCKROACHES AND WATER BUGS
they are more deadly than
RATTLESNAKES

Cockroaches carry germs of disease and filth from cellars and sewers to the pantry shelves and food containers.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET RID OF THEM

Liquids will kill only about 10%. Poison powders will do about the same.

There is only one sure and safe way to entirely rid the house of these pests. Roaches are night feeding bugs. They don't appear until late and then the entire family turns out for its daily meal. Feed them something they like better than ordinary food, something that is non-poisonous and does not drive them back into the walls.

CURTIS IS "IN" AND HE'S "OUT"

Washington, Sept. 2—After some weeks of hesitation and indecision friends of Vice-President Charles Curtis now understands that he is inclined to run for the Senate from Kansas next year, leaving it up to President Hoover to find a new running mate on the national ticket.

He may change his mind once or several times before th efinal irrevocable decision must be made, but confidantes with whom he has discussed the situation reported today his present inclination is strongly in favor of abandoning the national political field.

The vice-president dismisses questions with the answer that it is yet too early to make any announcement.

Swindled Bank Puts Claim for $2,000,000 Up to Lloyds

London, Sept. 2 (US)—Lloyds, British insurance organization, famed for writing policies on almost anything to virtually any amount, has received a $2,000,000 claim under a banker's guarantee policy from a Chicago bank which was swindled out of $3,500,000 by an employe, it is reported.

Navy Declines Bids for Rides on Akron

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Navy Department announced today that all requests for rides on the new dirigible Akron and applications from localities that would like to be included in the itinerary of her flight will be declined.

The department emphasized that the Akron will be a commissioned vessel of the Navy and carrying of passengers on her will be permitted only in exceptional cases and not at all during the trial flight.

HOOVER DELAYS MOVE ON TAXES

Washington, Sept. 2 (AP)—The day of reckoning on how to balance next year's budget of the government will await further study of business conditions by the administration.

Confident that the next few months will show a recovery and a consequent increase in income tax receipts, President Hoover is withholding decision whether to recommend an increase in taxes or to resort to a bond issue to meet another prospective deficit.

So far there is every indication that the next fiscal year will show a difference of about $1,000,000,000 between government expenditures and receipts.

Mr. Hoover has been advised by congressional leaders that a recommendation for a tax increase would mean a bitter contest over the vital issue of how to raise new revenue. In view of this, Republican leaders are hopeful of tiding over the depression by another series of bonds.

"Where have you been all my life?"

When the right one comes along . . .

You wonder why you wasted time on the others!

This been-waiting-all-my-life feeling has hit millions of smokers, men and women both . . . when they broke open their first Chesterfield package and caught its more pleasing aroma . . . when they lighted their first Chesterfield and knew, that minute, that it was milder—not sharp or biting.

And after a few puffs, they knew that the taste was better. Here were the cigarettes they had always hoped for, and looked for.

Here were cigarettes that satisfy! Satisfy—that's the word that "fits." The right tobaccos—the CHESTERFIELD kind of tobaccos, Domestic and Turkish—cured and aged, blended and cross-blended in the right way. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. The paper is just right. Everything about them is just right. Notice the difference.

They Satisfy . . . and—they're milder. Smoke as many as you like!

GOOD...they've got to be good!

HALL CAINE RULES IN FAVOR MORE THAN MODERN 'INSIGHTS'

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

THE DEATH OF HALL CAINE at the age of 78 proves once more that in the field of letters and the arts one need only live long enough, outlive, in fact, most of one's contemporaries, to attain a reputation in the eyes of a later generation which at the height of his powers would probably have been denied him. When Hall Caine was flourishing, back in the '90s, Anatole France was considered rather a pleasant dilettante among the French writers of his day. Thomas Hardy gave up writing novels because of the outcry against them. George Bernard Shaw was only an irritating Fabian soap-boxer and a scathing dramatic critic. And Hall Caine himself was usually classed with Marie Corelli as a melodramatic novelist, who prided himself on his resemblance to William Shakespeare and affected a profundity which his published fiction did not bear out.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

Today France and Hardy are enshrined in the odor of literary sanctity. Shaw's lightest word is radioed around the world, and even Hall Caine is treated in his obituaries with a respect which certainly his contemporaries did not grant him. He fares better, as a matter of fact, than that brilliant editor and novelist of the same age, who died only last week, Frank Harris.

But Hall Caine was respectable—he rated a knighthood—and Frank Harris was not. Harris, whom the papers last week called gently "the bad boy" of modern English literature, was, as a matter of fact, something of a blackguard, by all accounts, although one of the most provocative and audacious editors and biographers of his time. His life of Oscar Wilde is a classic of its kind; his posthumous life of Shaw may well prove to be another.

Old as he was, Harris still had the stuff of life in him, whereas Hall Caine's writings are deader than last year's grass. Yet the man for all his pretensions to tragic power and philosophic depth could tell a rattling good story of the old, rich, fruity, English kind, packed with elementary melodrama and elementary morals and vivid portrayal of the surface life of his day.

All Good Reading, Even Today

No books are loved so well as those which a boy or girl, just beginning to read, finds on his book-shelves at home. Our family, as I remember it, used to have nearly all the best sellers of the day, as they came out, and to this day the popular literature of the '90s is more familiar to me than that of the past decade.

So Hall Caine lingers pleasantly and even impressively in my memory, along with Townsend's "Chimmy Fadden" stories and Harding Davis' "Van Bibber" and Paul Leicester Ford's "The Honorable Peter Sterling," one of the best of our political novels, and "Trilby" and "Richard Carvel" and "Quo Vadis" and "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" and "A Friend of Caesar," all good reading even today, better reading than a good deal of what passes today for social insight and ethical profundity and psychological illumination.

They knew how to tell good stories, those old ones!

Like most stories writers, Hall Caine wrote best about the scenes of his youth. Although he was Cheshire born, he spent his youth on the Isle of Man, then native and unspoiled, its inhabitants speaking a curious kind of Irish dialect, its old institutions still hanging on, and its old superstitions.

Hall Caine's best work will be found, I imagine, in "The Manxman," one of his earliest, and "The Deemster," that moving story of the young judge who had to sit in judgment on the woman whom he had led astray, a theme not unlike that of Tolstoi's "Resurrection," which, I remember, came out about the same time.

But undoubtedly Hall Caine's most popular tale was "The Christian," the story of Gloria Quayle, daughter of old Parson Quayle, who went to London to be a nurse and ended up as a musical comedy star, and of the stern fanatic, John Storm, who entered an Anglican monastery and tried to convert the East End of London with its cockney rowdies and jam factory girls.

You will remember its striking climax, the wild night at the end of Derby Day when John Storm, who has renounced his vows and gone back into the world to rescue Glory, finds her and tells her:

"I have come to kill your body, Glory, to save your soul!"

Has Hollywood Missed Something

No wonder the thing was dramatized and played all over the English-speaking world. The late Edward Morgan played John Storm and his likeness with cassock and crucifix was on all the billboards. I wonder that the Hollywood magnates, with their hunger and thirst after the good talking melodrama, have never dug up "The Christian" and modernized it. It's full of sure-fire stuff.

Later Hall Caine went far afield. His "Eternal City" was popular, both as a novel and a play, following in the footsteps of Marion Crawford's splendid "Saracinesca" series of novels, but it never had, I think, quite the sincerity and sense of reality of the Manx stories. Its theme of the three-cornered duel between the woman, the radical statesman and the Pope was strongly conceived in terms of popular politics and religion, although it is entirely out of date today.

In his prime he was one of the wealthiest novelists in the world. He lived in Greeba Castle in Douglas, Isle of Man. Had he only lived a generation later and had the same success, he would undoubtedly have ranked financially with Shaw and Barrie. But his best days were before the time of the richest rewards of his craft.

His contemporaries in the art of story telling have been mostly forgotten. Maurice Hewlett, Anthony Hope, H. Rider Haggard, Gilbert Parker, some of them far superior to Caine, are out of the picture, and Caine lived to reap some of the respect rightly due to them and to that interesting period in which he wrote. Others, who started with him, Shaw, Wells, Barrie and Kipling, have written literature in a sense which Hall Caine never understood, and their reputations are secure.

Old Horace may have been thinking of some Roman story teller of his youth when he sighed to Postumus:

"Alas, how the fleeting years slip away from us!"

Eugenie Kept Past Under Her Hat--And Here's the Hat Itself!

CHIC, YES?

LE DERNIER CRI IN 1866

When the damosels of post-Civil War days, with their hoopskirts, bustles and frills, put on the rakish bonnet that Empress Eugenie decreed was IT, this was the result. Here is a picture from Harper's Weekly of 1866.

RADIO GOT OUT POLICE IN 3 MIN.

The speed and efficiency of the short wave broadcasting system for the police department as a means of catching criminals, which will be installed in Boston if the order is approved by Mayor Curley, was demonstrated in a recent gang war riot in East Mich., according to a letter received today by M. R. Jones of Dorchester.

Jones' brother, Merrick D'mock is a police officer in East and alternates on eight hours between driving a radio-equipped police car and operating the radio receiving set at patrol headquarters.

"This short wave broadcasting system installed by the police department here has been a great success. The other night I was on duty as dispatcher, when a gang war riot started in an outlying part of the town.

"I sent the alarm, and within three minutes had every available policeman in the city to the spot."

Women Are Fined After Auto Spree

Miss Agnes Hogarty, 29, of School st., Everett, was fined $5 on drunkenness charge, and $25 for driving while drunk, when arraigned in Cambridge Court today.

Mrs. Nora Flanagan, 29, of Heath st., Brookline was fined $5 for being drunk. William Murphy, 28, of Main st. and William McEnaney, 28, of Windsor st., both of Everett, were each given 10 days in jail. Patrolman Sutton testified the quartet were found cruising over the racing along the Charles river. All appealed.

Youngman Praised for Contract Vote

Lt.-Gov. William S. Youngman's vote against awarding state highway contracts to others than lowest bidders was commended today in a letter to him from H. M. Comerford, secretary and business representative of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers, Local No. 283.

Comerford said the federal government threatens to withhold considerable money allotted as federal aid for two projects that the governor's council refused to award to lowest bidders.

HOSPITAL HARD HIT BY SLUMP

If funds are not forthcoming for the Convalescent Home of the Children's Hospital in Wellesley, the institution which has ministered to thousands of children in nearly a half-century, will close its doors.

That the home faces a grave crisis was confirmed by the superintendent, Miss Lillian Guilfoil, who said the depression had hit the hospital hard.

Social service workers and hospitals which discharge patients to the Wellesley institution have made applications in greater number than ever before. The home is supported partly by voluntary contribution and partly by the small amount which parents of patients pay if they are able.

95 CANDIDATES FILE PAPERS

Candidates for the City Council and school committee continued to visit City Hall today, taking out and filing nomination papers to place their names on the ballot for the November 3 election.

The first woman to enter the municipal campaign was Miss Eleanor C. L'Ecuyer, who took out nomination papers for City Council in Ward 15, Roxbury. She was one of the 85 candidates who visited City Hall yesterday when the campaign officially opened.

The nomination papers, containing the signatures of 300 voters, must be filed with the election commissioner by September 22 in order to have the candidate's name placed on the ballot.

Construction Work Cut in Watertown

The valuation of building projects in Watertown, in August, fell, according to the buildings department. The total was estimated at nearly $100,000, while that of July was $110,000.

Speeder Fined $25

Convicted of speeding for the second time within a year, Donald T. Steele, of Burnham st., Springfield, was fined $25 in the Waltham district court.

NOBLE FIANCE JILTS MADCAP EUGENIE

Fiery Little Coquette Goes Merrily to New Conquests

In the early days of the eighties, before the modern laxity of morals had gained much headway, Eugenie de Montijo, daughter of a Spanish grandee and red-headed IT girl of those times, tilted a tiny hat from much after the manner of 1931, and stuck a plume in it for quite a succession of gay seasoners, before the third Napoleon decided to provide her a safe berth in the Palace of the Tuileries and call her the Empress Eugenie of France.

This is the third installment of the story of her rise from obscurity to a throne.

By LAURA YITRAY

Art for art's sake in the studio of her sculptoring lover having left lovely Eugenie de Montijo with nothing but an attack of laryngitis and a plaster model of his Venus - the exquisite red-head turned to more invigorating forms of romance.

In Madrid at the time sojourned a prince of the House of Orleans, the deposed French royalty. Eugenie, who itched for the royal purple, fell for his blue blood, and he succumbed to her fiery coquetry.

Shopkeepers rushed to their doors in wild alarm, and citizens fled to their mother's arms, as the pair mounted on fast steeds with elegant trappings, capered recklessly over the cobblestones.

The vision of her Tilian locks floating to the breezes her saucy nose high-tilted, her milk-white skin and bare shoulders, her ankle peeping from the luxurious folds of her green velvet riding habit, caused many a middle-aged burgher to smile and blush sheepishly.

Speed of Equine Mounts Set at 10 Miles an Hour

Nevertheless, the "Chief of Police" of Madrid issued an edict that equine mounts must not be ridden through the main thoroughfares at more than 10 miles an hour.

It is said that the ladies of the town were particularly incensed at her.

Thus banished from the center of the city by public sentiment, the ardent Orleans and his fair equestrienne sought the lonely bridle paths winding through forest glades where even the bird peasant in hidden bye nests.

As such paths are narrow and seldom straight, the prince put his arm about Eugenie and said, to be able to rescue her if her horse should stumble. And such proximity kindled to flame love's smoldering embers.

"Ithesome Diana," the scion of royalty murmured in her ear, "you are fit meat for a prince's fancy. You are lovely enough to be a royal paramour, and regal enough to be a queen."

Eugenie took that compliment very much to heart for the time could not guess that she would be crowned by the descendant of the gentleman who had kicked his own ancestors into the street.

So Orleans and Mademoiselle de Montijo let their horses to graze while they studied botany and one of the meanest stories linking their two names were circulating in the salons and even being alluded to in the newspapers.

There was nothing to them though, as was shortly evident when Madame de Montijo summarily canned the elegant pretender for a more serious minded suitor who was planning to stake her to a wedding ring.

Marquis an Intimate of the Duc d'Albe

The Marquis d'Alcaniraz was an intimate crony of the fatuous Duc d'Albe, who after in vain trying his romantic claim upon the youthful Eugenie now paid court to her elder sister.

He had heard how the latter's trick had driven her to attempt suicide, and pity had for her soon in his heart.

He unexpectedly appeared before her father, the ex-prince, to request the honor of partaking with Eugenie of the bi-sentiment of matrimony.

The Montijo man-of-which had gone to seed during the years of the family's impoverishment, had been given a coat of paint, some and out since they accepted to the title, and a richly-carved mahogany sofa had been added to the parlor furnishings.

It was there that Eugenie determined her action.

Sitting on horseback does not hold a candle to galloping on it through forest glades so it is no wonder that the red-head simply ceased ardently and tenderly up at her riding fiance one evening murmured:

"Seigneur, I am oppressed and faint. Let us go into the garden for a breath of air."

Marquis Changes Mind About Wedding Eugenie

That started all the trouble and with the wedding date but a little over a fortnight away and the entire social palaces of ordered in the hope that the disappointed Marquis would come to his senses, Eugenie was put to her wits' end to find a way out for him.

Her grandmother needed no pondering him for during the ceremonial honors that he might had sought, while Eugenie and her brain mamma (see below) fled hastily to the Chateau de Beau, Tenn., in September, 1850. The flowers were bedecked with an axe by a burglar they supposed being their home. A man named John Taylor shot it was out of jail while awaiting trial for the slaying.

STOLEN CAR RAN INTO TREE

Three men facing charges of robbery while armed and larceny of an automobile were each held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury by Judge Hayden in Dedham court today. They are Thomas Richardson, Norwood ave., Dorchester, and Daniel J. Horgan, Norfolk ave., Jamaica Plain.

They pleaded not guilty to holding up Joseph Zozesky, taxi driver of Lonia st., West End, early yesterday. It was charged that they took $1 from Zozesky at the point of a gun when he slowed down at Washington, Roxbury, and also made off with his taxi. The motor was later found smashed against a tree.

SUSPECT IN AXE MURDERS HELD

A suspect in a double axe murder committed in Tennessee two years ago was arrested in Boston today.

He was taken into custody by Boston police inspectors, Donovan, Holman and Goodman following a visit here of Sheriff H. E. Biggs, of Polk County, Tenn. The suspect is maintaining his innocence and says he is not the wanted man.

He said he was a resident of New Bedford until four years ago when he moved to Tennessee. The murder in connection with which he is sought was the slaying of two brothers, Sid and Len Lee, near Benton, Tenn., in September, 1929. The Lees were beaten with an axe by a burglar they supposed being their home. A man named John Taylor shot it was out of jail while awaiting trial for the slayer.

N. E. Business Survey Shows Gain in July

New England business activity showed a slight upward trend after a leveling off in June, had temporarily interrupted an upward trend extending from [illegible] months, the New England Council reported today.

"Improvement in July came almost entirely in the woolen and worsted industries," the report stated. "Cotton consumption showed some improvement but is still below the point reached in April. Daily wool consumption in July increased by nearly 16 per cent over June figures. This is the greatest rate of consumption for any month since May, 1929."

2 Boston Men Fined in R. I. Rum Running

Joseph Dalioba, 34, of Columbia ave. and Joseph T. Sylvia, 20, of Richfield st., Roxbury, were fined $150 each in Central Falls, R. I., today on charges of transporting liquor.

They were arrested last night after police found three five gallon cans of moonshine in their car.

DAILY TRUE STORY

A DESERT ROMANCE

OF COURSE, she'd been a fool. Estelle Harrison knew that now as she sat up, a bit dizzy, by the side of her flivver, the front wheels of which had struck a rock in the darkness.

She rose laboriously, carefully testing her legs and sighing with relief to find she hadn't any broken bones.

With difficulty she climbed into the roadster, pressed down the starter and threw the clutch into reverse—nothing happened—she got out and raised the hood, using a torchlight to examine the engine. The light cast her face into a weird glow as she bent over trying sparkplugs, and then she was aware of a horse approaching.

"A voice came out of the darkness—"Hello—what's the trouble?"

Estelle looked up, she couldn't see the speaker's face but she liked his tone.

"Nothing much," she answered. "I tried to climb a rock in the dark and now Old Reliable won't move."

The man dismounted and throwing the reins over his arm walked toward her leading the horse.

"Maybe I can help you," he said pleasantly.

She saw then that he had worn blue jeans, a bronzed complexion and hands that showed outdoor work and that he wore a regulation cowboy hat and riding [illegible]

They Rode Horseback

After some minutes of puttering he straightened up and faced her as she held up the flashlight.

"I'm afraid I can't be the proverbial good Samaritan," he said, "I can't fix your car and send you on your way rejoicing and maybe it's a good thing that's so because you're on a bad road and you might run into danger."

"But what am I going to do?" asked the girl. "You see I'm on my way across country. I was to meet a girl friend at Pueblo, and —well, I was thrown out of the car and I feel a little shaky. I know it's foolish."

"I couldn't think of leaving you here alone," said the young man. "I've a ranch house of sorts about 10 miles to the north, and if you think you can stick on a horse I'll take you up there, then tomorrow we can get help for your flivver."

There was nothing else for it. The man mixed the girl to the back of the horse and then vaulted up himself. Together they rode through the darkness to the ranch house.

"Here we are!" Lights twinkled ahead. They rode up to the barking of half a dozen dogs, and the man, alighting, lifted the girl down.

The ranch house was a crude affair but it was furnished with the good taste of simplicity and it looked homelike and inviting.

The man bowed as they stood in the living room. "Permit me to introduce myself," he said. "Ned Dakin of New York and points west. Sit down and I'll get you a cup of tea."

Estelle sank into an easy chair. She was aware of a pain in her head as the [illegible] and she would be grateful for a half closed her eyes after smiling "thank you" for his [illegible] gestion.

Her host returned from the kitchen presently with a tray.

"Now, then," he ordered, "eat, drink and be merry, I can see you need it."

"I suppose" said the girl, "you wonder if I'm a plain idiot to be gallivanting across the country alone."

"Not plain," he grinned, "far from that."

"Anyway," she went on, "I'm deeply grateful to you—I'm not usually afraid of anything but I guess it's just as well I'm here."

"Which, better," he agreed, "and I won't keep you up—I've a room here reserved for my mother or sister when they appear on the scene—it's yours—come along."

She [illegible] "thanks," the girl [illegible]

Estelle slept late [illegible] —and when she awoke she was surprised to find her muscles [illegible] stiff. She appeared in the living room as Dakin was [illegible]

"Hello," he greeted her. "How are you?"

"Able to go on, I guess," she smiled, "thanks to you. Now, the question is how do I get back to my flivver?"

He shook his head. "Now, the question is, are you ready for lunch? Because I can see it's ready for us."

A wizened, brown-faced woman was striking a bell and the sound reminded her that she was hungry. Dakin held her chair for her and they sat down to a hearty meal.

"Now for the flivver," he announced. "I went down this morning to see what could be done with it—The nearest town is 25 miles and there's only one garage there—but the mechanic is coming over—"

"That's good," said Estelle

"Wait a minute," smiled the other, "tomorrow mechanic-while can't I persuade you to rest here."

Estelle nodded really she was glad of the chance. She learned during the day that Dakin spent his summers on his ranch just because he liked the life—in the winter he went to New York as an antidote, he explained.

She was a most sorry when he appeared the next morning with two horses and invited her to ride the ten miles to her disabled car. "The mechanic will be there," he said.

They rode the ten miles stopping now and then to admire the view of the hills, the brilliant hues of the flowers, the clear, far distant blues and purples of

To Meet in New York

"It's beautiful," said Estelle, "I love it—I hate to leave it."

"Glad to hear you say that," answered the young man; "can't we fix it some way so you can stay?"

"Do you think," he went on as she dropped her gaze, "that you could stand this as a summer diet—that you wouldn't get lonesome—that you could be a living example of the truth that two is company?"

"In theory," answered Estelle, "I might try."

"But will you?" He leaned over and took her hand. "Will you give me a promise? Think it over—I don't want you to act in a hurry—I'll see you in New York. Is it a bargain?"

"It's a bargain," said Estelle.

[illegible] was waiting. [illegible] door was [illegible] for Estelle. The [illegible] was [illegible] then. "There wasn't nothin' wrong with that flivver," he said puzzled

Dakin tried to [illegible] surprise, but there was [illegible] his eyes. "That so?" he asked "Why, I tinkered with it and it wouldn't go—and I thought I knew all about flivvers, too. Strange things happen in the desert, don't they?"

28 NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS

Twenty-eight new cases of infantile paralysis were reported today to the department of public health, making a total of 71 new cases [illegible] the first two days of the month.

Some of the new cases come from Lynn, Malden, Quincy and Springfield, two each from Lexington and Milton, and one each from Dedham, Cambridge, Concord, Westford, Lunenburg, Malden, Stoneham, Saugus, Hyde Park, Watertown, Wakefield, Winthrop and Westfield.

WIDOW'S LOVE MAKES HIM LAUGH AT JAIL LOCKSMITHS

TELLING WHOLE STORY — UNABASHED BY PLIGHT — BEHIND THE BARS

LYNN MAN IS FACING A NEW LEGAL FIGHT

Action Is Brought by the Husband of His Former Housekeeper

Declaring that after seven years of estrangement he still loved his wife, and that Dr. James C. Rowley, of Lynn, 'stole" her affections, Edward Hannon, of Newhall st., Lynn, today filed suit for $10,000 against Rowley in Essex Superior Court, for alienation of affections.

Dr. Rowley recently won a suit against Mrs. Hannon, his former housekeeper, for recovery of a bungalow and $331 in cash. Dr. Rowley claimed he made these "gifts" when he was seriously ill last May, only provided he died from the illness.

Hannon, who was reconciled with his wife recently, stated in his suit that Dr. Rowley had been the reason for his separation from his wife

Dr. Rowley and his wife, Mrs Mary Rowley, were reconciled during his illness last spring, after a separation of about four years.

DIET DOES ITS DUTY, BUT DON'T LOOK TO SCALES FOR PROOF

CORRECT WEIGHT, OH YEAH!

The girl reporter tried Wynne's Safe Diet and then set out to impress the boys in the office. The scales held varying opinions of Dr. Wynne's method, but the psycho-analysis was good. (Staff Photo).

GIRL HAS JOB CONVINCING REPORTERS

Boston Weight Machines Great for Psycho-Analysis, However

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

"You're getting plump!"

This from the boys in the office to the girl reporter. And not even softened by an added expression of sympathy:

"But in the best places!"

Dieting is a great thing for one's lines and health, but when the scales go back on a poor working girl.

What's to be done about it?

SCALES ALL "OFF."

Judging by Boston's weighing machines, I might just as well have had cream for breakfast and a juicy sirloin for dinner. The dials on the scales coldly informed me that I weighed ANYWHERE FROM 129 TO 132.

But that's beside the point. Scales mean nothing in my life.

It was the stinging and cutting remarks of those boys I call old leapers those gogglers of hot news that inspired the girl reporter to drop blueberry pie and ice cream sodas and creamy dishes and other mouth watering victuals.

She was going to show them. Not that she really needed to, but then.

So the girl reporter subscribed to Wynne's Safe Diet, the "safe and sane reducing diet that appears daily in the Boston Evening American.

GREAT ON BANKROLL

She got so she almost enjoyed poddled eggs and fruit salads and whole wheat bread, those good old substantials. And maybe the boy friends didn't enjoy it. Are you estimating their savings?

Perseverance and persistence invariably lead to the ultimate goal and in this instance a return to a sylph-like figure was the achievement. The challenge of 25 newspapermen to one girl reporter could not go unanswered.

Ordinarily the girl reporter only weighs 126 pounds of choice femininity. But boys will be boys and they must have their fun, so the diet was on.

Religiously the girl reporter followed the menus offered in this paper. She grated raw beets and she ate onion salad with vengeance. She "drank" watermelon with bitter sweetness.

TICK YOUR SCALE

And then came the day of judgment. The great day when she anticipated the dials of the scales would topple down to way below 126.

She felt fine. Physically she was in tip top condition. She was chipper and agile.

With a few of the boys from the office as escorts and official checkers she sought out a weighing machine.

And the verdict reads: 111 pounds.

But with it went the information that:

Although sensitive, you have an evenness of mind and firmness of will that makes for good balance.

Good balance! what derision!

On to another scale. THIS READ 128. Well, maybe I'm wrong.

And so to another weighing machine, unmindful of the many jeers from the escorts.

This scale moved six stretching fingers to 132 pounds. Was there no justice?

Again I was told:

You have high intelligence and believe in your own powers, but this does not blind you to the merits of others.

It surely blinded the girl reporter to the accuracy of the scales.

On two different scales HER WEIGHT REGISTERED 133 and the same fortune dashed out this "hot news"

"You are just and generous in many ways but close in money affairs. You never do anything cheap.

Close in money affairs! What folly is such prediction. Her friends knew better.

ANALYSES GOOD

After 25 attempts on scales with the hope of reaching some correct measurement of weight the girl reporter gave it up as a hopeless task. But she did get many a laugh out of the little tickets that stretched her weight all along the line from 126 to 142 and told her things about herself she never knew till then.

"You have great self control, and stand abuse, a torrent of undeserved advice, and wrong assertion.

You are a student and have deep thinker and logical judgments and opinions. You are liked by everyone.

Nothing escapes your observation.

You are grateful for any kindness shown you, but do not demand a great amount of consideration.

These are just a few of the characters reading analyses the girl reporter brought back to the office.

But if there is nothing in the scales, there sure is something in the die.

Wynne's Safe Diet fortified with the information disseminated on Boston's weighing machines.

She actually weighs after the diet and as nature MADE HER! 124 POUNDS.

And so back to normal living.

THEFT AT CHAIN STORES BARED

Four men, three of them brothers, were arrested in Mission Hill Roxbury, in a chain store delivery truck today charged with stealing goods left in doorways of rival chain stores. Twenty-five large boxes of produce, taken from doorways, were found in the truck.

Doorway thefts have been going on for some time, police said. This morning Patrolman Littlefield noticed that boxes had disappeared from stores on the route of this truck. Investigation located the truck and the missing goods.

Men arrested were Walter Doesman, 32, of Elm st., Cambridge, Joseph, 19; Frank, 26, and John, 16, Zenotel of Buttonwood st., Dorchester.

Lawrence Man Is Held in Check Case

James Kenney, 38, of Hampshire st., Lawrence, was before Judge Wilcott in Cambridge court today on charges of forging a check and thefts of a wreath of flowers.

Inspector Dennis O'Brien of the Cambridge police told the court that Kenney forged a check in the name of the secretary of a fraternal organization and purchased a wreath of flowers from a florist on Cambridge st. He collected 90 change. He was found guilty and held in $500.

High Humidity Grips City; Showers Due

Humidity 19 degrees above normal made Bostonians uncomfortable today, but the promise of occasional showers tonight and Thursday promised some relief, the weather man stated today. Overcast skies will prevail in this section, with moderate southerly winds becoming westerly.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Mostly cloudy, occasional showers tonight and Thursday, slightly cooler Thursday, moderate south shifting to west wind.

ONLY AN 'AMATEUR'

That's what Jimmy Volz, 13, says about Georgie Ford, 9, shown above. Georgie and Jimmy ran away from their Roxbury homes and were gone 33 hours when they returned with Jimmy carrying Georgie pick-a-back. Georgie isn't a good runaway, Jimmy holds, because he cried half the night they spent in a lumber yard and he had to carry him home. (Staff photo.)

FORD OFFICIAL FINDS N. E. IS BEST OFF

Cowling Says Conditions Here Better Than in Any Other Section He Has Seen

Conditions in New England are brighter than in any other section of the country he has visited on his tour, W. C. Cowling, national sales manager for the Ford Motor Company, told 600 New England dealers at a Hotel Statler meeting today.

"It took us 10 years to wake up to the fact that we did not have prosperity," Cowling also reminded the dealers.

Prosperity just preceding this depression was a state of mind, a fallacy. We were spending paper profits. We cannot improve the market with artificial stimulants but must do away with the present ultra conservatism.

"People are becoming adjusted to the new conditions, which should be a sign of returning prosperity. But it will not be the same inflated prosperity as before.

"The present situation cannot be worked out by political doctors. It is thoroughly economic. In the adjustment now taking place, the farmer, for example, is becoming reconciled to the fact that while he is getting less per bushel for what he is growing two or three bushels where he formerly had one.

"He is coming to realize that prices for other commodities are correspondingly lower."

Novena Services

The novena of Thursdays in honor of St. Theresa of the Child Jesus will continue this week at St. Stephen's Church, Hanover st., North End with devotions tomorrow at 12 20 (noon-day mass), and 7 45 p. m. The Rev. Francis W. Murphy, D. D., will conduct the novena exercises and preach at the latter service.

LOVE AND THE WOMAN OF THE PRESENT DAY

By HELEN ROWLAND

TEN YEARS ago, love was suffering from malnutrition now it is dying from overstimulation and nervous indigestion.

The reason why a man seems to be able to get through so much more work in a day than a woman does, is probably because he doesn't spend half of it in wondering if some other man is fatter than he is.

Considering that love is the most absorbing game of a woman's life, it is astonishing how little she ever learns about when to hold and when to play her winning cards, or how to keep a poker face.

HELEN ROWLAND.

A woman's face wears the same cryptic expression when her husband tries to slink himself after a little sentimental deflecting as the shoe-clerks wear when a woman tries to "explain" the hole in her stocking.

"Beware the Greeks most when they offer gifts" . . . and a woman most when she offers to be your "little platonic pal"!

Collin Is in Love With Fanchon

THAT WAS the beginning of Fanchon's happy summer. Collin enjoyed the weekend rather more than he had expected. He had come up for three days on business. He thought business in this land of golf and tennis was screwy, but he was young and beautiful, and she was nice, and she was a good pal, and she was backing her self-confidence and her appearance with considerable money, and she certainly was pretty.

So on Monday, at the end of the week, Collin found himself saying that he would come up for the week-end of the following week. And he did. And he found himself saying that he would come up for the week-end of the following week. And he did. And he found himself saying that he would come up for the week-end of the following week. And he did.

"The first thing you know," said Collin to Fanchon one day on the links, "first thing you know you'll be getting married and then where will we be?"

"Just where you were before," she laughed, "and well rid of me according to your own early confession."

"I'd rather hoped you'd forgotten that," he grumbled and promptly muffed his easy approach to the green.

"Well, so I have! No, I won't get married, ever," said Fanchon, and her eyes were very dark and smoky.

"Neither will I, then," he said cheerfully, "I couldn't bear to bring a family into our happy threesome. We'll just go down into a ripe old age together," he laughed.

But the eyes of shadow remained. He had been so far from her that he was beginning to forget the sound of her voice. And he knew suddenly that he was in love with her. He put his hand on her arm. "Fanchon," he began, "I've been thinking—"

"Don't!" she said sharply. "Don't spoil everything. Let's be pals. Let's have fun. Let's not be serious. Let's not—"

"We'll miss you," she said, lightly. "Aunt Jennie spoke of taking me abroad in the spring for a long visit, France and England and perhaps elsewhere. Maybe we could meet you somewhere and come on home together."

"Thanks," he said, gloomily.

"Why, Collin, for what" she asked in some amazement.

"For missing me—"

"Of course, we'll miss you," she said, still trying to keep her words light and casual, more than we can say."

Fanchon went home with Collin's words ringing in her ears. She had been forced to care for Collin. He knew now that he had been forced to care for her. But she was not interesting in love. She was interested in Collin. He was the first man who had ever made her feel that she could be a woman. He was the first man who had ever made her feel that she could be a woman. He was the first man who had ever made her feel that she could be a woman.

Fanchon was sick for a week. She was sick for a week. She was sick for a week. She

The Killer Instinct Schaaf Has It Wrecks Ring Rivals

Max Should Fight Losing His Standing Dempsey Still Idol

HUB BACKS A'S TO DEFEAT CARDS

Ernie Schaaf's killer instinct is what has enabled him to knock out Victorio Campollo, Jim Maloney, Angus Snyder, Dick Daniels and some lesser lights since he started his latest drive toward the pugilistic heights. Schaaf possesses the same destructive flare that enabled Dempsey and other great champions to wreck all opposition.

As an amateur boxer in the navy, Schaaf had the touch of the ring killer. He would come whanging out of his corner and usually tipped over his rival in two or three rounds.

Schaaf changed his style when he entered the professional ranks. He tells me he was coached to go along easily for fear he would blow up inside of 10 rounds. Perhaps this system helped to develop Ernie into a better boxer than he would otherwise have been, but it held back his march to the head of his boxing division.

Since going under the management of Jack Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, Schaaf has been sent into the ring under instructions to keep his punches flying as rapidly as possible. Sharkey and Buckley feel that Ernie will soften all of the heavyweight opposition if he keeps forcing the issue and punches away with both hands. He won't have to worry about getting tired in the 10th round if he continues this policy as few of the big fellows will last that long.

Schaaf is only 22 years of age. He has a marvelous body and almost unlimited endurance. He lets his wallops breeze much like bullets sputter from the mouth of a machine gun. No one punch knocks out the opposition. It is his volley of deadly blows that gain for him the victory.

Schaaf has been boxing regularly, which is one of the chief reasons for his success. He has not permitted ring rust to gather. He likes the thrill he gets when the gong sounds for the opening round. But even better than this he enjoys that exultation that comes to him when he sees his opponent go down for the final count. Schaaf is a great fighter who has found himself. Watch his smoke!

Schmeling Lost Sight of in the News

Meanwhile Herr Max Schmeling, who turned in a first-class fight when he stopped Young Stribling at Cleveland, has been lost sight of in the news. He is over in Germany sulking in his tent instead of tipping over first-class challengers.

I have always considered Schmeling a better scrapper than his conduct outside of the ring would make one believe he is. In his bouts with Risko, Paulino and Stribling, the youthful German proved he can punch and also take it. In the Sharkey match, he merely had an opportunity to show he could take it as he hasn't hit the American champion yet.

If Schmeling kept in action and bowled over a few more elephants of the ring, he would probably be accepted as a champion by all of the fans. As it is, all Jack Dempsey has to do is to tip over four or five fourth and fifth raters and the mob is once more hailing him as the king of the heavyweight division. If Dempsey decided to stage a comeback next year, he will come pretty near naming his terms for a Schmeling match.

Then there is Gene Tunney to be reckoned with as an outstanding heavyweight. If Gene stages a comeback, he will also take the play right out of Schmeling's hands. It would seem that Herr Max could help his own game along by forgetting his watchful waiting policy and taking a few pot shots at the chins of some of our heavyweights.

Of course, Schmeling's doctors will tell you that Max suffered an eye injury in his bout with Stribling that will make it impossible for him to appear in the ring for several months. I doubt if Max would have discovered his eye injury if it were not for the fact he was under contract to mingle with Primo Carnera this month.

Schmeling's refusal to meet Carnera makes it possible for the Ambling Alp to collide with Jack Sharkey for Jimmy Johnston at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn on October 1. The Illinois Garden's claim on Carnera's services expires on September 30, which is why it was decided to stage the Primo-Sharkey mill on October 1.

Athletics or Cardinals? Write Your Ticket

I find that the boys in Newspaper Row, who bet anything from a cigar to a grand note on ball games, favor the Athletics to defeat the Cardinals in the World Series. They are not worrying about the fact that neither the Athletics nor the Cards have the well-known mathematical strangle hold on their league pennants, but this will occur in a few days.

Boston has always been an American League town, which is one of the reasons the Athletics are such red-hot favorites here. A World Series is so short that it is possible that the better team will lose. A new hero and a pitcher who rises to the heights can knock over a million dope sheets.

The series will open in Philadelphia, probably on October 3. The following week the gang will pile into Pullmans and take the long ride to St. Louis. A Pullman ride from the East to St. Louis is my idea of unnecessary punishment. The one consolation is the fact that St. Louis is not quite as hot in October as it is in July.

Baseball in St. Louis has lost some of its color since prohibition. In the good old days when men were men and the reformers didn't receive a tumble on a big national issue, they used to have a splendid bar under the grandstand of the St. Louis ball park. One could get beer for a nickel a glass. There was a period when they sold beer out of bottles at the ball games in St. Louis. They stopped this friendly practice when a great many of the fans got an idea that the proper place to park an empty bottle was on the dome of an offensive umpire.

I don't exactly approve of the old practice of beaning umpires with pop bottles, but I do believe the umpires have been surrounded by too much protection by the league officials during the past few years. The late Ban Johnson started the practice of backing up the dear old umps whether they were right or wrong. This program gave the umps a false idea of their own importance. It soon was considered an unpardonable offense to even glare at the umps.

This practice has taken a great deal of fire out of baseball. I like to see ball players roaring mad when a close decision goes against them. I like to see them leaping right up at the umpire who ruled them out. This at least proves that the player is interested in his game. The players have found it so costly to protest close, and even bad, decisions that they now take adverse rulings without a word of protest.

Youth, if permitted to run a little bit wild, will furnish the fire that baseball needs.

FIVE STARS BEATEN IN TITLE GOLF

Beverly Country Club, Chicago, Sept. 2 (AP)—Five of the eight "seeded" stars were victims of upsets today in the first round of the National Amateur Golf championship.

The beaten favorites were Johnny Goodman of Omaha, George Voigt of New York, Johnny Kinnan of Chicago, Charley Seaver of Los Angeles and Gene Homans of Englewood, N. J.

Francis Ouimet of Boston, the only former champion in the field, had no difficulty disposing of Shields, Seattle youngster, four and three.

The Bostonian, despite some uncertain work himself, was up in 3 when the fourth was played, and had the next four holes to go. Ouimet closed the match on the 13th green. Shields was 3 over the course on the first nine, finishing 44 shots.

Wright's Par Golf Gives Him Victory

Charles Clare, New Haven, won four of the first five holes from the veteran Fred Wright, Boston, but couldn't sustain this prosperity and dropped three straight to see his lead wiped out.

Wright's par golf for seven consecutive holes on the incoming journey was too much for Clare and the Bostonian wound up victories 4 and 2.

Johnny Goodman Omaha one of the top seeded favorites was beaten 6 and one by Billy Howell of Richmond Virginia state champion, playing in his first tournament.

Howell, playing with surprising steadiness squared his match with Goodman at the 10th and went on to win two and one without the loss of a hole on the incoming route. The Virginian played par golf on seven of the last eight holes winning the 326-yard 14th and the 200-yard 17th with a beautiful tee shot to settle the issue.

George Voigt of New York was taken into camp by Howard Matson of Chicago the Big Ten champion 6 and 4, after trailing most of the way.

Voight Goes Down With Colors Flying

Voigt went down with colors flying, against a brand of super golf uncorked by Dick Martin, The Big Ten titleholder, after losing the 10th to have the match squared paired the next seven holes in three under par to eliminate the New York star two and one. Martin canned long putts for birdies on the 12th 16th and 18th. Voigt's par golf was not good enough under such circumstances.

In a battle of qualifying medalists Seaver lost on the home green to Grant Altine (Dick) Johnston of Rochester, N. Y. by one hole.

Lehman who shared the limelight for the qualifying medal also won in the home green hole to Paul Jackson of Kansas City, Mo. after holding a three hole advantage at the turn.

Homans the top seeded player following the failure of Jimmy Johnston to qualify, lost a close battle to Ross Somerville, the Canadian champion, 2 and 1.

Dick Martin of Chicago the Big Ten champion, shot sensational golf, including three birdies on the inward route, to dispose of George Voigs, 2 and 1, while Billy Howell the young Virginia champion, accomplished the downfall of Johnny oGodman by the same margin.

McCarthy and Dunlap Still in the Fight

Maurice McCarthy, Jr. and George T. Dunlap, Jr. New York youths, were the leading survivors in the lower half. McCarthy staged the most sensational comeback of the first round.

Four down at the 30th, he came back with a dazzling 34, one under par over the last nine to defeat Russell Martin of Chicago 1 up on the home green. McCarthy captured the last three holes to decide this battle.

Dunlap came through at the expense of Chandler Harper, youthful Virginian, 3 and 2.

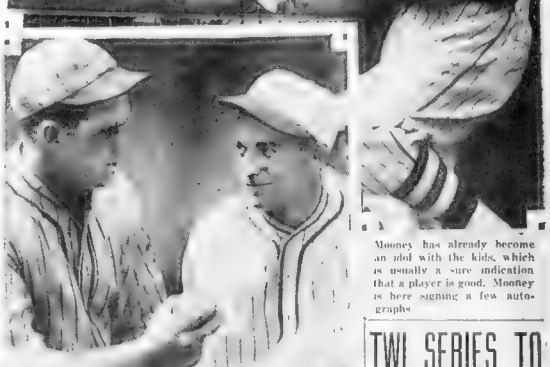
JIM MOONEY, ROOKIE, IS FILLING GIANT'S SHOES



Here is Jim Mooney, rookie, whom the Giants recalled from Bridgeport. He blanked the Braves yesterday, and looks like one of the season's finds. He is shown here examining a gold piece which he keeps in his cap for good luck.

Mooney has already become an idol with the kids, which is usually a sure indication that a player is good. Mooney is here signing a few autographs.

FRANK HOGAN JIM MOONEY

"Now here's how to fan the heavy hitters." Frank Hogan, Somerville boy, and Giants' catcher, is telling Mooney all about the weaknesses of enemy batsmen and just how to pitch to them. Mooney is paying close attention, as Frank is one of the best backstops in the league and knows his business.

Jack Sharkey Says Schaaf Would Defeat Max

"Ernie will punch Schmeling out of the picture," said Jack Sharkey today upon his return to Boston. "I never hope to get a crack at Schmeling but Schaaf will and I'll guarantee that he'll knock the German out after 10 rounds.

"Hell, murder any man who comes to him. Schmeling runs right at you. He fight Schaaf? Wouldn't that be wills. What would they say? All in the family, even if I knocked him out or he knocked me out.

"If I thought that my chasing Schmeling would prevent Schaaf from getting a chance at Schmeling's title, I'd step aside. I've got everything I had the chance. Let this boy have his. He'll whip Schmeling and that would be revenge enough for me. I'd be getting mine anyway."

Schaaf on Par With Any Heavy—Corum

By BILL CORUM

New York, Sept. 2—Ernie Schaaf, a huge sailor from the sea, swabbed the decks with Senor Vittorio Maria Campolo in Ebbets Field, and when it was over Sailor Schaaf's superior officer, Gunnery Sergeant Sharkey, okayed the job and granted the young man shore leave.

The two "A's" in Schaaf's name indicate his rating among the younger heavyweights today. They now can fight. And, what's even better, he will.

Campolo Took Bad Licking During Bout

Senor Campolo is an Argentine cowboy by profession, but he never took a ride like this one through the Pampas. There must have been many a time during the proceedings when the Senor wished he had stuck to his pony and left that rough, tough sailor alone.

As Mr. John Doyle, of the Brooklyn Doyles, who was sitting next to me remarked:

"He could have got up, but what a sucker he would have been."

Says Schaaf Would Beat Max Schmeling

I do not say Schaaf is a great fighter yet. But I do say he must be reckoned with in the ranks of the heavyweights from Champion Schmeling down, and that in my book he would be no worse than even money against any active boxer in the world today. He would beat Schmeling as sure as you are reading these lines. I do not think I understate the case. It is chiefly when I say that Ernie would be too much man for him.

When they can take your Sun Joe punch and keep coming, my friends, they are a tough row to hoe. champions or anybody else. Examples of the skilful Loughran, running and boxing and eluding and he seconds say, may make the Wrentham lad look crude. But he can stand in there toe to toe and outfight him.

Mrs. T. H. Logan defeated Mrs. F. S. Brennan, 2 and 1, in a Women's Club title match at Tedesco Country Club.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

The golfing action is a natural action. Except with the novice who possibly has never had a club in his hands it is such when you give it a chance to be. Your arms swing back and forth in a natural manner, the same as the pendulum of a clock swings back and forth. In delivering the club head your arms introduce into them consciously or unconsciously the same pendulum swing which you have been using in all of your golfing strokes.

Irving Myerson of Boston Y. M. C. A. Natick won the New England professional welterweight championship in the finals held on the ice skating rink of the Winthrop Community House.

Myerson defeated John Olson of Natick and he retained the silver prize money and emblem of the New England pro title. This was the first tourney of its kind ever held in this section.

Myerson, through his manager Jack Braff of East Boston has issued a challenge to all comers.

How to Become Rich
By MYLES T. McSWEENEY

A reader (we still think it's the same one), asks us how many ways is it possible to win money on a horse race.

Having followed tips faithfully for ten years, we have discovered that all the ways to win money on a horse race are any other systems but ours. Because all our systems have been consistent losers.

Here are some of our methods:

Play a six horse parlay on all the long shots

Take safety pin, close the eyes, and stab at a list of entries. The one the pin impales will be just as good as any other.

Call up bookie. Tell him you have the wrong number. Deposit the two dollars in a savings bank. If you do this 50,000 times, you will have at least $100,000.

YOUNG LEADS IN $15,000 SWIM

Toronto, Sept. 2 (AP)—George Young, of Toronto, took the lead in the Canadian National $15,000 swim marathon at the six-mile mark of the 15-mile grind today, displacing Givani Gambi, of Italy, who had led from the start. Gambi quit soon after being passed.

The cold water began taking its toll of the swimmers as they neared the five-mile mark, the field being cut down to 11 of the more than 100 out of the starters.

Among the prominent withdrawals was Miss Jane Sponsler, of Port Colborne, Ont., who was second last year.

Young swimming easily and powerfully, stepped for a time on a towed water sled and drank a cup of coffee, then resumed his powerful crawl stroke.

ALLISON AND VAN RYN WIN

Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, today won the national doubles tennis championship with a straight set 6—4, 8—6, 4—6—3 victory over Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Berkley Bell, New York.

Mel Merritt Shoots 74 at Tedesco Links

Mel Merritt a member of the Salem C. C. went around the Tedesco links in the course in a 74 for a new mark, of course record. The score was not made in competition.

RETZLAFF'S RING CLIMB HALTED BY SEKYRA

DEFEAT OF WESTERNER BIG UPSET

New York, Sept. 2 (INS) — The rapid march of Charley Retzlaff, the knockout king of the Northwest, toward the heavyweight championship came to an abrupt halt today.

The lanky North Dakota farmer boy unexpectedly stubbed his toe over Joe Sekyra, veteran trial horse from Dayton, Ohio, in a 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium last night.

Sekyra practically closed both of the farmer lad's eyes in the first four rounds and then smeared his way to a close decision despite a strong and game finish by Retzlaff.

The writer's score card gave six rounds to Sekyra and four to Retzlaff. Several ringside observers thought Retzlaff won the fight, despite the fact that his face was smeared with blood for eight of the 10 rounds.

He forced the fighting all the way and finished strong after being toppled to the canvas just as the bell rang at the end of the seventh round.

It was the first defeat in the "Flipper's" spectacular career. Charles had won 31 out of his 35 starts by knockouts, ripping the features of his opponents to shreds with his slashing right hand punches. Last night he was given a dose of his own medicine.

Sekyra's Experience Blocked Retzlaff's Rushes

Sekyra's experience and superior boxing ability enabled him to evade Retzlaff's wild rushes in the first round. Although the blond Daytonian opened a cut over Retzlaff's left eye in the second, Charley earned a shade by forcing the going. He stepped on the gas in the third round, driving Sekyra to a corner and punching his head off with vicious overhand blows.

Joe put Chas. on the skids in the fourth heat when he raised a huge lump under Retzlaff's right eye with a left hook. In a minute's time the lump was swollen almost to the size of an apple. His port option also was in bad shape.

The fifth was a waltz with Sekyra dancing around his helpless foe, tying him up in the clinches or peppering him leisurely. Chas. rallied gamely to capture the sixth, but was in a bad way in the seventh when Sekyra dropped him with a leaping right behind the ear. Retzlaff got a break when the bell rang at the count of four.

Retzlaff Came Along Strong in Tenth

Sekyra held, stalled and speared his way through the eighth and ninth heats but lost the 10th when Retzlaff, with the face of blood from his eyes, stopped, staggered him with two rights to the chin. If the fight had lasted two more rounds Retzlaff would have reversed the decision.

Retzlaff was beaten but far from disgraced. Even in defeat he looked like a winner. Once he learns more about the art of self-defense and develops a left hand he will be back in the title chase under full steam. He has been fighting only two and a half years.

The attendance was about 12,000 and the receipts $13,000. Retzlaff was 18 to 5 favorite, weighed 194 to 176 for Sekyra.

The Daily Dozen

By M. T. McSWEENEY

If you haven't the price of a newspaper, or can't find one near by, one sports item you can be sure of knowing: Three times a week, just say to yourself: Jack Dempsey last night knocked out four opponents, all in the first round.

That will be very correct. Three months from now, say to yourself: Jack Dempsey is now ready for a shot at the title. And, without a doubt, that will be the sport story of the day.

Now if Dempsey would win a dog or something, that would be news.

We knew it would happen sooner or later. We now have the newest and livelier football.

The new ball is made of soft pigskin leather instead of hide. The seams are supposed to make it easier to handle and give the thrower of a forward pass more grip. If this business keeps up, they'll be playing football in balloons.

More than 200 hundred swimmers were scheduled to start in the $15,000 annual Canadian national swim marathon today. Another good prohibition argument that if you stick to water, it will make you wealthy.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was always original in his manner of breaking into the news. Yesterday, the high commissioner of baseball was saved by the police from a very embarrassing situation. Even the judge's long hair couldn't have saved him. It doesn't reach that far. The Judge's trousers were given.

When interviewed, the judge issued the following statement: (Statement can't be printed — censored).

Men have tried to fill other men's jobs, but the fellow who took Judge Landis' trousers must have been trying to place himself in the seat of the mighty.

The judge will probably never get another haircut.

Roslindale Downs Providence Giants

The first half championship Roslindale team of the Boston Twilight League downed a 7 to 1 setback over the Providence Colored Giants at Lincoln Park, South End, last night.

Bill Rose blanked the Giants for seven innings but in the eighth Rene Melton connected for his 37th homer of the season to prevent a shutout.

Wilson Admits He Can See Ball, But Can't Hit It

Chicago, Sept. 2 (INS)—"Regardless of what uniform I wear next year, I'll do a comeback," Hack Wilson, failing star of the Chicago Cubs, said today. "I'm not through by a long shot."

Wilson admitted that a change of scenery might do him good and indicated that a Brooklyn uniform in 1932 would be as pleasing as any.

The home run king of 1930 cannot explain his slump.

"I can see the ball just as well and the pitchers do not seem to have much more stuff than they had last year," he declared.

STOCKS LOWER, LED DOWN BY CARRIERS

New York, Sept. 2—Lehigh Valley's dividend omission caused free selling of railroad shares on the New York Stock Exchange today, and led the rest of the market to lower levels.

Trading however, was quickened only moderately from yesterday's pace, the slowest in seven years. Sales fell short of a million shares.

A disappointing weekly report of the movement of revenue freight, as well as continued failure of the mid-week steel production and electric power consumption curves to show signs of the usual autumn impulse, contributed to the general heaviness.

Several issues sold off 2 to 5 points or more and many of the so-called pivotal shares were off more than a point.

After a slump in the middle of the day, the market turned extremely quiet for a time in the afternoon, but dipped further in the late trading and closing prices are low to the day's lowest.

Lehigh dropped 8 points to the lowest in 19 years, and issues off 2 to 5 points included New York Central and Pennsylvania, both breaking to new lows for recent years.

Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific pfd., U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Case, Auburn and Eastman were driven down.

General Motors and General Electric were about steady, easing only fractionally.

The start of freight car loadings for the week ended Aug. 22, showing a gain of only about 9000 cars, was little fractional to the usual upturn experienced in that period, and compared with advance estimates circulated in Wall Street yesterday of 18,000 cars.

Omission of Lehigh Valley's dividend signaled uneasiness over other railroad disbursements. Further reductions by Pennsylvania and New York Central are being freely forecast in brokerage circles.

The testimony at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on freight rates has served to accentuate the gloom over the low rate of carrier revenues. One prominent investment banker said that under present conditions only the bonds of the Union, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Norfolk and Western may be regarded as "triple A."

Nevertheless, the carrier bonds have recovered notably in the last few days and held up fairly well today. They had obviously become technically oversold.

MAINE POWER EARNINGS UP

Central Maine Power Co. and subsidiaries, operating east of Maine, England Public Service Co., and part of Middle West Utilities System, report consolidated gross earnings of $7,632,632.00 for the 12 months ended June 30, 1931, compared with $6,853,853 for the corresponding period a year ago. After operating expenses, taxes and other charges, the net available for retirement and dividends was $2,-883,310, compared with $2,211,214 a year ago.

For the quarter ended June 30, 1931, gross earnings totaled $1,876,-589, compared with $1,709,969 a year ago. Net for retirement and dividends was $681,031, compared with $563,883 for the same period the year previous.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Sept. 2—Grains displayed a weak undertone at the close today with liquidation in wheat featuring the late trading. Final prices for wheat were ⅝ to 1¼c lower, corn to ⅛c off and oats unchanged to ⅛c down. Rye was ⅝ to ⅝c lower. December and May wheat touched new los for the season late in the session, at 53¾c a bushel respectively.

Curb Market Has Drift to Downside

New York, Sept. 2—The curb market had a drift to the downside today. National Short Term Securities "A" opened at 20, then dropped below 19 before rallying on statement the break was due to a bear raid. Utilities were mostly fractionally off. United Light "A" moved up.

Rail Bonds Have Sharp Recessions

New York, Sept. 2—Railroad bonds declined sharply today in late trading in sympathy with the general slump in rail stocks. Selling pressure was particularly noticeable in Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate and St. Louis-San Francisco issues.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Sept. 2—Cotton futures closed 12 to 17 points lower today. Oct. 6.78, Dec. 7.00, Jan. 7.09, March 7.28-30, May 7.45, July 7.65-66. Spot quiet; middling 6.85.

ADVICE TO INVESTORS IS FREE

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 3 Winthrop Sq., Boston. All replies are made by mail direct.

UNITED CORP.

G. E., Boston—Your advice on the purchase of United Corporation will be appreciated. I already own some good bonds.

Ans.—United Corporation is a speculation. A dividend of 50 cents a share was paid October, 1930. Nothing further until the announcement on April 14 that the regular annual dividend would be 75 cents a share. Operations in 1930 resulted in a net income equivalent to 78 cents a share, compared with 49 cents in 1929; for six months ended June 30, 45 cents a share. How much do you want to spend? You may need more bonds.

SPECULATIVE STOCK

P. S., Boston—As a reader of your paper I shall appreciate an opinion on the purchase of American Car & Foundry.

Ans.—For fiscal year ended April 30, 1931, American Car & Foundry reported net income of $4.69 on the preferred, leaving a deficit of $1.15 a share on the common for the preceding year. With quarterly payment of 25 cents a share June 1 the annual disbursement was reduced to $1 a share, contrasted with 75 cents paid in previous quarter. Dividends have been paid from 1925. The stock is speculative.

MEAGER MARGIN

T. Z., Lynn—Past advice from you has been excellent. Do you consider Pullman a good stock to buy around current levels?

Ans.—Pullman, Inc., and the predecessor company have a long and uninterrupted dividend record, but unless earnings increase this year the current $6 rate could not be considered secure. Net for 1930 was $4.37 a share, compared with $5.23 in 1929. Net for the first six months this year was only 28 cents a share. The stock is speculative.

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM

Miss B. R., Roxbury—Some Phillips Petroleum was bought at 8. Do you think I ought to sell?

Ans.—Phillips Petroleum is a speculation on which we could not advise. A recent levels you has a small profit. The stock had paid dividends in varying amounts, with extras, from 1821, but quarterly payment of 50 cents a share expected April 2 was omitted because of unsatisfactory earnings. Net income for year ended Dec. 31, 1930, was equivalent to 71 cents a share, against $5.20 in 1929. In the first half of current year deficit of $2,674,000, compared with a net profit of $4,683,000 in similar period of 1930. It is well regarded in speculative circles.

BOSTON STOCKS ARE LOWER

Rail shares led stocks to lower levels in today's dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange. While changes in particular groups ranged from 2 to ½ points the remainder of the list showed only fractional losses.

Atchison slumped over 4 points and Boston Albany and Pennsylvania over 3 points each. Down over 2 points, New Haven eased fractionally. American Telephone was down nearly 2 points. Gillette dipped a minor fraction.

Edison Electric added a point. Fractional advances were shown for Boston Elevated, New England Telephone, Swift & Co. and United Shoe.

Norwalk, Ct., awarded to Doherty & Co and H. L. Allen & Co. recently the $181,137 issue of 4½ per cent bonds, $220,000 sewerage disposal bonds dated September 15 and payable 1933 to 1960. The other part of the issue of $2,000,000 authorized by Connecticut Legislature for sewer purposes, probably will be sold to private investors. Estabrook & Co., and Putnam & Co., 100.669; Atlantic Corp., 100.6436; Eldredge & Co., 100.445; Freeman & Co., 100.301; H. M. Byllesby & Co., 100.163. All bids were for 4½ per cent bonds. Flarion, Ct., will receive bids until 8 p.m. September 25 for $80,000 4½ per cent highway bonds dated October 1, and payable 1932 to 1950.

New England Power Construction Work

Several construction jobs have been completed recently by the New England Power Association, a subsidiary of International Hydro Electric System. Among these is the 19-mile 110,000 volt transmission line connecting from the plant to the Turners Falls Power Co. and connecting with the Harriman Millbury Line.

Other work completed include a six-mile 66,000 volt transmission line between South Royalston and Athol.

Cash for Antioquia "Bonds Is Received

New York, Sept. 2—The Bank of Manhattan Trust Co., fiscal agent for Department of Antioquia 7 per cent bonds due 1957, first, second and third series, states it has received funds for interest payable October 1 and for the sinking fund.

At that, it might be worse for the agriculturists. What if they had to buy a license for the wolf at the door?

About the only thing less profitable than raising wheat these days is raising four of a kind.

One master mind has advanced the idea that surplus wheat can be made into bricks.

They should be made in a size convenient for throwing, and distributed to agriculturists at cost.

American Tragedy

Mother's an old-fashioned dame
With fixed ideas concerning shame—
Sister's just a social prude,
Who'd rather be polite than rude,
While brother (backward, quiet shy)
Dislikes bad gin, had Scotch, had rye—
And father's tussy, too, I fear,
He don't like ether in his beer;
No wonder neighbors, smug and set,
Snub us every chance they get.

Not a Dumb Animal By Darrell McClure

WE'RE IN A TIGHT PLACE, SHIPMATE—I AM CERTAIN THAT CROOK, COZENBY, AND HIS GANG SENT THIS WARNING—THEY ARE DETERMINED WE SHALL NEVER REACH OUR MINE ALIVE!
MAN AND BOY, I'VE SAILED THE SEVEN SEAS FOR FORTY YEARS AND NO LUBBERLY PIRATE HAS FRIGHTENED ME YET—AN' THEY NEVER WILL!! WE'RE HONEST MEN—THERE'S A LAW IN THIS LAND TO PROTECT US!
I'M AFRAID WE CANNOT HOPE FOR MUCH HELP FROM THE LAW—THAT DEPUTY SHERIFF, BILL STEEMS, DIDN'T LOOK LIKE AN HONEST MAN TO ME!
YOU KNOW, WHEN YOU GROWLED AT THAT DEPUTY SHERIFF YESTERDAY I BAWLED YOU OUT SOMETHIN' AWFUL—NOW, I WANNA APOLOGIZE—YOU WAS RIGHT AN' I WAS DUMB!

New Auto Rates a Rank Injustice

Make Your Protest Felt!

The Insurance Commissioner of Massachusetts, an appointive official not directly responsible to the people, is about to levy a tax of $22,200,000 upon the automobile owners of this State.

This tax, arbitrary by nature and unscientific in form, is the compulsory automobile liability insurance.

It is arbitrary by nature because no resident of Massachusetts can operate his automobile upon the public highways, which he, by his taxes, has helped to build and sustain, unless he is granted an insurance certificate by a private insurance company.

It is unscientific in form because it divides the residents of Massachusetts into eighteen zones or territories, with carrying rates from $16 to $174 per auto, with only a superficial semblance of equity or consistency.

It possesses all the elements of possible injustice because the State has never established a thorough or satisfactory system for determining with exactitude the rates which the insurance companies certify as being adequate and necessary to produce a profit for them.

The rates have been increased for four successive years. The last boost was 6 per cent. The impending boost is of 11 per cent, amounting to about $2,200,000 per year.

But that does not tell half the pessimistic story.

A citizen of Chelsea in humble or moderate circumstances who owns a small car which takes him to his work on weekdays and his family to a grove or a beach for a Sunday outing, must pay $87.00 or $23.00 more than he paid last year before he can secure a registration plate from the State granting him the use of his auto upon the highways.

The people of Malden, a splendid community, will suffer an increase in excess of 40 per cent if these enormous increases are finally approved by Commissioner Brown, and they will be approved by him in substance.

Of the inequity and unjustifiable lack of uniformity with which the people of Massachusetts are arrayed against each other in zones there will be further discussion in these columns. An entire newspaper page would be required to analyze these manifest inconsistencies.

The Insurance Commissioner and the insurance companies say accidents and claims have increased. Of course they have. So have the insurance rates, 17 per cent in two years, and there are more cars than ever before on the highways to pour their annual taxes into the coffers of the insurance companies.

Commissioner Brown says there will be a public hearing on the rates on Sept. 11. This hearing ought to be more than an ex-parte affair, with only the representatives of the insurance companies present.

EVERY AUTOMOBILE OWNER IN MASSACHUSETTS WHO BELIEVES THE ENORMOUS RATE INCREASE TO BE UNJUST OUGHT TO BE PRESENT AND SPEAK OUT HIS PROTEST. WE OUGHT NOT TO PERMIT OUR OFFICIALS, WHETHER THEY ARE ELECTED OR APPOINTED, TO BELIEVE WE ARE DEAF, DUMB AND BLIND.

IF YOU CANNOT ATTEND THE HEARING, A PROTEST COUPON, PRINTED ELSEWHERE IN THIS EDITION, ADDRESSED TO GOV. ELY, WILL PERMIT YOU TO MAKE YOUR PROTEST FELT, AT THE COST OF A POSTAGE STAMP.

'How NOT to Do It'

Strong words—those of Samuel Untermyer, endorsing the proposal of a national Prosperity Loan of five or, as he says, "even ten billions of dollars for employment relief."

Mr. Untermyer ridiculed as FUTILE and LACKING IN VISION the measures proposed by the President and now under discussion in Washington by "the leading men of the country."

"Private voluntary contributions," says he, "are worse than useless in such an emergency. However well intended, they create a false appearance of furnishing relief and stand in the way of real relief."

MR. HOOVER SEEMS TO POSSESS BUT ONE ART, AND THAT IS "THE ART OF HOW NOT TO DO IT," which Charles Dickens described in a never-to-be-forgotten chapter of "Little Dorrit." His administration presents a perfect picture of "The Circumlocution Office," as etched by that immortal master, with the graphic strokes of his genius.

Evasion, postponement, fact-finding commissions—with their time-wasting researches into the obvious and undisputed—fault-finding commissions, alibi commissions; but never solution-finding commissions—in fact, the entire repertory of futility it possesses in complete mastery.

BUT IT DOES NOT ACT.

"There is just one thing, and only one," says Mr. Untermyer, "to do in such a crisis and to do it instantly. Call Congress into special session, conscript as much of the surplus income from men of wealth in the country as is needed."

He maintains that the money necessary for an adequate plan of relief would quickly be forthcoming; that the bonds of the Government, at a low rate of interest, "would be snatched up over night out of the hoards of money vainly looking for investment, with which our banks are choked to overflowing."

These are plain words and to the point.

WILL THE HOOVER ADMINISTRATION BE CONTENT FOREVER TO TWIDDLE ITS THUMBS?

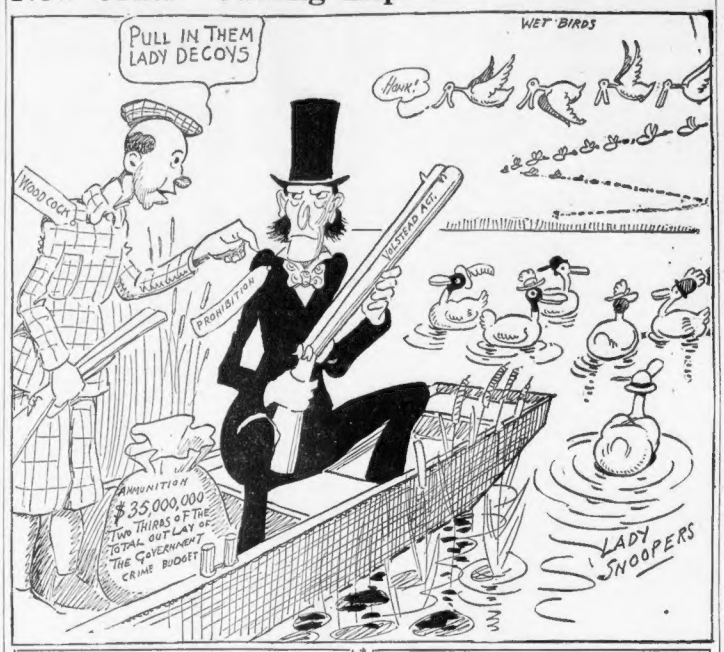
Foiling the Barnacle

The delicacy of a barnacle's smelling apparatus may yet prove its undoing. The creature has been hitch-hiking onto ships for ages and ages.

Owners have to lay up their ships at the drydock for scraping, and the annual bill is around $100,000,000, which is considerably more than the United States pays for oysters.

It took a landlubber, Dr. Paul Visscher, far inland at the Western Reserve University, to find out that the barnacle has a dainty nose. So he is now evolving a paint with a horrid odor, and which, when smeared on the bottom of a ship's hull will discourage it from hooking on for a free ride.

New Order—Cutting Expenses -:- By T. E. Powers



Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Everything Goes Blah!

Everything goes blah.
Ever since morning I've been sitting
At this doggoned machine,
Typing pages, tearing them up—
Might as well be doing
Copy book exercises
For all the wallop
There is in my stuff today.
Yet—it's got to be done, somehow—

Elsie Robinson

Newspapers can't stop.
Because I'm in the dumps—
Contracts aren't suspended
Because I feel like a last week's waffle.

Fierce—to be tied down like this—
So many words to be written every day—
Day after day
Year after year
Whether I feel like it or not—
Grinding out words
Like a busted meat-chopper.
Am I sorry for myself?
Stranger, I'm just one long
Choking Sob—
That's how sorry I am for myself.

Wonder if other people feel like this
About their jobs—
Wonder if they have days
When everything goes blah . . .
Famous people—
Makers of History—
Big Shots—
Did they get like this?
The Vikings, the Crusaders,
The Pilgrims, the Pioneers,
Did they have moments
When their ears trailed?
Saint Paul—(that snootiest Saint!)
Old J. 'acsar—
There was a colorful lad!
Alexander the Great
And Mister Columbus—
Did they spend hours 'n' hours
Just chewing their nails
Or making marks on the telephone pad?

Or, getting down to modern whoises—
Wise kid, Lindy,
Mussolini, the Big Snort,
Willie Rogers, the Wise Snicker,
Do they, sometimes,
Between press notices,
Just sprawl around
And make wah-wah noises?

I suppose they do.
I suppose they get sick of themselves,
Sick of their jobs,
Exactly as I do—
YET THEY GET THINGS DONE.
THEY GET THINGS DONE.
Good days or bad days.
Ha-ha days or ga-ga days,
They keep plugging along—
AND GET THINGS DONE.

Strange—when you think of it that way.
When you stop to consider
That for millions of years
This human race has been Putting over Front Page News—
Working wonders and miracles—
And how was it done?
Was it done with a lot
Of fizz and whoopee and pep
By guys who felt
All full of fireworks?
No, friend, it wasn't.
It was mostly done
By a bunch of peevish, tired out
Flat Tires
Who felt that everything
Had gone blah—
BUT KEPT ON PLUGGING—
JUST AS IF THEY HAD GOOD SENSE.
Well, it's wonderful.
You and I should certainly be Thankful to think that we Have heroes like that
In this world.
But, 'a'matter of fact—I'M NOT!
Let 'em be heroes if they want to.
All I know is—days like this GIVE ME A PAIN IN THE NECK!

New York Day by Day

Night Clubs Doomed

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—Night clubs will make no effort to swing out of their inertia this fall. Most of those shut for the summer will remain closed. While optimists believe prosperity will restore them to popularity, the majority believe the idea has spent itself.

Their doom was sealed when the control of a large number passed to racketeers and mysterious murders became almost a weekly event. What is left of the so-called "night life" is confined to private residences made over into speakeasy hide-aways.

Even these, hooray! find the going tough. During the height of the night club craze there were more than 500 in mid-town, opening after theater and closing at dawn. Today not more than two dozen of consequence remain and they are desolated.

With the decline of night clubs there set in a wave of nocturnal enthusiasm for various all night sandwich salons and for months these were crowded with Broadway stay-outs, who like to show off. But now there is scarcely a handful in those once heavily patronized.

The situation on Broadway is just as pronounced in London, Paris and Berlin, says he, talking like Burton Holmes. A theatrical agency computes that as a result of this collapse there are more than 20,000 entertainers out of employment in various parts of the world.

Broadway wonders what became of Leon Gordon, actor and playwright—not the artist—who came to the Rialto about fifteen years ago. He wrote "White Cargo," which made a fortune for him and the producer, Earl Carroll. Gordon was sued for plagiarism and afterward vanished. That was 10 years ago. Nobody has heard of him since.

I breakfasted the other morning with a man who winced at intervals from sudden spasms of pain. He would shake his left hand as though to restore circulation. Finally he excused himself and upon returning seemed at ease. He explained that 20 years ago he lost an index finger in an accident and at intervals feels twinges at the end of the missing finger. The only relief is in plunging his hand in hot water.

And at a dinner talk turned to people who made you remember them by the sheer glamour of personality. Among them were Theodore Roosevelt, Eva Tanguay, Caruso, Jeritza and Mayor Walker. My impression is that achievement often builds up something that most people accept as personality. The person to me who expressed more personality than anyone I have ever known was encountered in a Bellman smoker between St. Louis and Kansas City. He was a chimpanzee-like hunchback dropping in for an after dinner cigar. When he talked one entirely forgot his looks. Not until I saw him more than a year later on a vaudeville stage did I know he was the late Marshall P. Wilder. Out of the current crop of celebrities who express personality with the most pronounced plus, I would vote for Floyd Gibbons.

Then, too a gentleman observed that he had never met a writing man whose looks suggested his calling. Irvin Cobb he thought might be the owner of a wayside English inn; Sinclair Lewis, a third baseman in a brush league; Fannie Hurst suggested the proprietress of a Broadway gown shop; Charles G. Norris, the managing director of a big London hotel and Peter B. Kyne, a contractor's foreman.

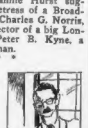
Perhaps similar musing could apply to every calling. Norman Hapgood is the only magazine editor I ever saw who looked the part. Certainly Arthur Hopkins or Charles Dillingham do not suggest theatrical producers. Nor would strangers suspect Paul Whiteman or B. A. Rolfe led orchestras.



* * *

And to cap a columnar climax Charlie MacAdams peered into my coop just now and observed: "You look as though you might be working"—which shows how easily one may be fooled by looks.

What Do You Know?

Mark each statement "True" or "False":

1. The direct cost of the World War to U. S. was less than $10,000,000,000.
2. The decisive battle of the Civil War was fought July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, at Chickamauga.
3. Benedict Arnold tried to sell his country and countrymen for $30,000 during the American Revolution.
4. A sonnet is a poem written in dignified, elevated style for some set occasion.
5. The Aar is a large German River, 200 miles long, and flowing into the Rhine.
6. The highest active volcano in the world is Cotopaxi, in the Andes, Ecuador, South America, about 19,613 feet high.
7. The recognized head of the provisional government of Mexico in 1915 was Francisco Villa.
8. The fandango is a popular Swedish dance, in three-fourth time, accompanied by guitars and castanets.
9. "To the victors belong the spoils" was the policy of Andrew Jackson.
10. In 1565 the English established the oldest city in America.

Answers to today's test:

1. False—about $22,000,000,000. 2. False—at Gettysburg. 3. True. 4. False—ode. 5. False—Swiss River, flowing into Rhine as it leaves Switzerland. 6. True. 7. False—Venustianoe Carranza. 8. False—Spanish. 9. True. 10. False—Spanish established St. Augustine, Florida, in 1565.

Today's Wonder

It Is Tomorrow's Commonplace

C. W. SCOTT, WHO RECENTLY FLEW FROM AUSTRALIA TO LONDON IN TEN AND A HALF DAYS, AND WAS HARDLY NOTICED.

LOUIS BLERIOT, WHO FLEW THE ENGLISH CHANNEL IN 1909 AND SET THE WORLD ON FIRE" WITH EXCITEMENT.

These iwo pictures remind you how quickly the world learns to take things for granted.

On the left is a splendid British flier, C. W. Scott, who recently flew from Australia to London in ten and a half days, half way around the world, without creating much excitement, except among his own friends and professional fliers.

On the right is the able French aviator, Louis Bleriot, first that ever flew across the English Channel. In its narrowest part the English Channel is a little over twenty miles wide. There are thousands of small boys now that could fly the Channel and back again a dozen times and think nothing of it.

But in 1909 that was new, and the whole world rang with the marvellous accomplishment, actually GOING UP INTO THE AIR, and actually FLYING.

It was important to England, for it meant that ENGLAND WAS NO LONGER AN ISLAND. It meant, although many in England didn't know it at first, and nobody in OUR Government seems to know it yet, that ships on the water were no longer of importance.

It was Lord Northcliffe, able British newspaper man, one of the best public servants that Britain ever had, who offered fifty thousand dollars reward to the first man that should fly the Channel. It was Bleriot that won the fifty thousand dollars.

And it was Lloyd's Insurance Company that PAID the fifty thousand dollars. Northcliffe, wise editor, offered the prize of fifty thousand dollars. Then, for a small sum, Lloyd's insured him, guaranteeing him against having to pay the money. It seemed so utterly improbable that within the time set such a miracle as flying the Channel would happen.

But it did happen. Northcliffe got the satisfaction of promoting aviation, and also got valuable advertising. Lloyd's paid the fifty thousand.

Not all, but some editors are as smart as that.

This picture reminds us how quickly we take things for granted, how soon "wide-eyed amazement" changes to "of course, what of it?"

Bleriot flew the Channel, and the world wondered.

Recently newspapers announced that thirteen different fliers were about to start across the Atlantic, and nobody paid any attention.

Soon enormous machines will go round and round the world, a dozen or a hundred times, without coming down, making repairs, taking on fuel in the air, dropping off passengers in small planes above California, Japan, Europe. And people will say only "of course."

A little while ago some Americans, with long beards, shaven chins, high silk hats, were driving a golden nail in a railroad tie, or trying to drive it, to celebrate the completion of the first railroad across the continent.

And already railroads are nearly out of date, ALTHOUGH NONE OF THEIR OWNERS YET REALIZE THE VALUE OF THEIR RIGHTS OF WAY. THEY WILL REALIZE IT LATER.

Just Folks

Self

'Tis tyranny of self that holds us down.
The little ego seldom lets us free.
When comes the moment we could gracious be
An impish impulse bids us wear a frown.

Why pass a stranger first within the gate?
The place is ours and let it ours remain.
Why do the deed which promises no gain?
And ere we think to answer, 'tis too late.

Self-interest blinds us in those moments rare
When self-forgetfulness would lift us high.
We would be generous and the chance is nigh
But tyrant thought says why give ear or care?

Self winds its chains around us, wrist and knee
Until at best the spirit can but crawl.
Against ourselves the gains we make are small.
We never grow as big as we could be.
